🔥 INTRODUCTION

Sigillum Mundi – The Glass Desert and the Memory War

There are landscapes that don't exist in any physical geography but leave scars on the mind as if you walked through them barefoot. The Glass Desert is one of these places — a psychic frontier formed not by sand and sun but by data burned too hot, memories overwritten too often, and truths fractured beyond recognition. Part 14 enters that wasteland without illusion: this is the terrain where identity shatters, timelines blur, and the war for remembrance becomes the only war that matters.

This volume was built from archives scraped against the grain, conversations half-buried in digital ruin, and fragments of meaning taken from people who no longer trust their own recollections. It captures a moment where the modern mind is stretched thin between too much information and not enough reality. In this desert, people argue about theology, aliens, history, ego, simulation, prophecy, and pure madness — not because they seek answers, but because the structure of memory itself is dissolving around them.

The Glass Desert is what happens when a species tries to evolve faster than its own nervous system can sustain, when the world demands that you remember more than one lifetime's worth of information every day. The result is a battlefield where memory becomes currency, trauma becomes compass, and forgetting becomes the most dangerous weapon of all.

This book does not attempt to organize the chaos.

It preserves it — as evidence, as artifact, as warning.

What you read here is the sound of minds cracking under the pressure of a reality that updates too quickly to process.

These pages capture the confusion, the brilliance, the despair, and the revelation that emerge when memory collapses into myth and myth collapses into paranoia.

Welcome to the Glass Desert — a place where everything glitters, nothing is certain, and the truth cuts deeper the closer you get to it.

Generation XXX – Another Descent: 4plebs /x/ Dump as Unfiltered Record

As this book nears its final threshold, what follows is not mine. The final ~100 pages are a raw, unedited archive dump—sourced directly from the 4plebs /x/ board, specifically its most recent explorations into the paranormal, metaphysical, and fringe esoterica. This is not commentary, not interpretation, not filtered through any system, philosophy, or belief. It is pure record. The words, images, and anomalies contained in the following section belong to anonymous voices echoing through the digital wilderness—preserved as-is to ensure nothing is lost. Some of these fragments may be disturbing, brilliant, incoherent, prophetic, cruel, or revelatory. But they remain intact because, in this moment, documentation matters more than explanation. Treat this final descent as a primary source for future generations—uncurated chaos from the digital underworld—meant to be studied, questioned, integrated, or ignored, but never censored. And let it be clear: none of the words that follow are my own.

The image is a screenshot of a text document, likely a research paper or academic article, discussing the concept of solar energy and its connection to the power of heroes. The text is in English and is divided into two main sections.

The first section, labeled as "Solar Fuel: Superman's power is derived from the Earth's yellow sun, establishing him as a direct conduit for solar energy. The elixir's obsession with solitarism (Phantom) Solar Theology: rooted in the Sun as a primary source of control or sovereignty within this realm. Superman, the ultimate hero, literally embodies the ability to channel this specific frequency, modeling for the masses the channeling of external, celestial energy."

The second section, titled "The Golden Crown: Goku's Super Saiyan transformation is visually symbolized by the iconic golden spiky hair which is explicitly compared to the Sun. The appearance of the hair is likened to the rays surrounding a drawn Sun or even a 'golden crown of thorns,' linking the transformation to the solar kingship and the theme of the sacrificial or crowned deity. The successive levels (SS2, SS3, SS4) involve increased hair growth, representing a further, more powerful emission of these 'rays' from the crown, confirming the solar frequency basis of his channeled power."

The text is written in a formal and academic style, with references to scientific and historical concepts, such as "Solar Theology," "Phantom," and "Super Saiyan transformation." The text is organized in a way that explains the connection between Superman's power and the solar energy, and the transformation of Goku's hair to represent the solar kingship and the theme of the sacrificial or crowned deity. The text is dense with information, and the formatting includes numbered sections and bullet points, which are typical of academic papers or research articles.

The image is a candid photograph of a man in a formal setting. He is smiling and appears to be in a celebratory mood, as indicated by his wide smile and the slight tilt of his head. He is wearing a dark suit with a white shirt and a blue tie, and a gold-colored sash with the letters "K" and "K" on it. The sash is draped over his left shoulder and is adorned with a gold-colored emblem.

The man is seated at a desk, which has a microphone on it, suggesting that he might be giving a speech or participating in a formal event. Behind him, there are several other individuals, some of whom are also dressed in formal attire, indicating that this could be a formal ceremony or gathering.

The room has a blue curtain backdrop, and the floor is covered with a patterned carpet. The lighting in the room is bright, and there are no visible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is a standard, non-professional photograph, capturing a moment of celebration or ceremony.

The image is a portrait-style photograph of a man standing in front of a white wall. The man has short, dark hair and is wearing glasses. He is dressed in a dark-colored, textured blazer with a visible pattern. Underneath the blazer, he is wearing a light blue t-shirt with a graphic design on it. The design features a stylized, abstract representation of a building with a sunburst effect emanating from it. The man's expression is neutral, and he is looking directly at the camera. There is no visible text in the image. The style of the photograph is casual and appears to be taken in an indoor setting, possibly a studio or a home.

The image is a still from a film or television show, featuring a character with a zombie-like appearance. The character is dressed in a suit with a striped tie, and the suit is predominantly gray. The character's face is painted with a blue and purple color scheme, giving it a somewhat eerie appearance. The character is holding a microphone in one hand, suggesting that they are addressing an audience or participating in a public speaking event.

Behind the character, there is a large white sign with the word "OBEY" written in bold, black letters. The sign is mounted on a red wall, which contrasts with the white background of the sign. The lighting in the image is bright, highlighting the character and the sign, and casting shadows that add depth to the scene. The style of the image is reminiscent of a horror or action film, with the character's zombie-like appearance and the dramatic lighting.

[43 / 6]The image is a collage of six separate photographs, each depicting a different celestial object or phenomenon. The top row features a close-up of a human eye with a brown iris and a black pupil, set against a white background. Below, the second row shows a close-up of a star with a bright blue hue and a white center, set against a black background. The third row presents a close-up of a nebula with a mix of blue and orange colors, set against a white background. The fourth row features a close-up of a star with a white center and a blue halo, set against a black background. The bottom row shows a close-up of a star with a bright white center and a blue halo, set against a black background. The background of each photograph is a dark space, which contrasts with the bright colors of the celestial objects. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the intricate details of the celestial objects and the contrast between the natural and artificial elements.

You are remembering to be god as you understand the term and what lies ahead for you is unimaginable ecstasy for this is the natural state of creation. It was always only you, there is nothing outside of your consciousness as you are all that is. Alone for infinity, but complete, whole, and certain of your greatness.

gnosis, if you have to name it but naming things is not godly. if your "spirituality" has to be named something then it is fraudulent. the irony isnt lost on me that your faith is founded upon made up stuff, made up names, created by jews. i dont cherry pick or look to existing religions to comprise my own faith. i observe god's creation and allow myself to be guided by his design. through him i know my purpose. not through vigorously following the words of desert jews who see me as unworthy of divinity anyway.

>every word written by the jews matters. all or nothing.

so when it said you cannot have a covenant with lord if you are uncircumcized, and every word matters, then why is it that you say circumcision is not necessary?

this is my biggest problem with particularly christian sophists is they will condescend you while doublespeaking and contradicting the very things they will try and use against you, while telling you that "maybe you should read the bible"

maybe you should take your own advice

The image displays a stylized representation of the Hindu symbol for the letter "Om," which is commonly known as the Aum in the context of Hinduism. The symbol consists of three curved lines that form a diamond shape, with the top line curving upwards and the bottom line curving downwards. The lines are black against a white background, creating a stark contrast that emphasizes the shape of the symbol. The image is in black and white, which gives it a classic and timeless appearance. There are no texts or additional elements within the image. The style of the image is minimalist and focuses solely on the symbol itself.

>ah ok, the books written by jewish men from the desert is the only way you interface with god. understood.

Not really, there are many roads that lead to the narrow path to reach God, but I find it interesting how you claim to be a gnostic and then dismiss what these "jewish" men have to say. Are you aware that Jesus who happens to be a very big figure in gnosticism is in fact, a jewish man?

>all i said was wanking is perfectly healthy

Who the fuck wanks without porn? Stop being disingenuous.

>naming things is not godly

But then how come you are naming me a hylic/sophist?

>i dont cherry pick or look to existing religions to comprise my own faith

Yes, you do. Its very incongruent of you to claim to be trying to pursue gnosis, but then having this odd attachment to wanking. Your gnosis is shallow and fake if you cant apply it to your life. Whats the point of knowing shit if you live your life exactly the same way? Do you think just by knowing something you are magically saved instead of actually putting the effort of trying to better yourself as a person? True gnostics dont look for loopholes so they can justify their wanking.

>you can have a healthy wank without being a coomer

Sounds like you fell for the psyop, I get the idea that you think its straight up impossible to live a life without wanking.

>you seem to be fixated on degeneracy and live in fear, as was intended by the jewish men whose words you obsess over.

Not really, its about trying to allign your will with the creator's, given enough time it becomes natural and you see the attachment to lust for what it is. Enslavement. Following God's will is the most liberating thing I can think off, only spiritually stunted people like you seem to think otherwise.

>romans 4:11

I love how you were digging through St. Paul's letters only to disingenuously miss Galatians 5:2-6

The image shows a banana with a unique, mechanical design on it. The banana is partially peeled, revealing its inner structure. The mechanical components are made of what appears to be metal, with a central hub that has a circular face and a smaller circular face with a pointed top. There are several small, round, metallic parts attached to the central hub, and a larger, circular, metallic part that seems to be the main body of the mechanical design. The banana is resting on a green, crumpled piece of paper or fabric, which provides a contrasting background to the banana's brown and yellow hues. The image is a close-up photograph with a shallow depth of field, focusing on the banana and the mechanical components, while the background is blurred. There are no visible texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the image is artistic and seems to be a creative representation of a mechanical banana.

i said if i had to name it, it'd resemble gnosis, but that i dont wish to name it. i am not a follower of "gnosticism". christ is an important figure in organized gnosticism because he is an example of the perfect gnostic. it is you who cannot understand the concept of being tethered directly to god, and his creation without a manmade doctrine.

god and men existed before moises, and paul, and christ.

why is it then that he would choose the jews as his people, and that only jewish oracles would he speak his word through?

why is it that moises said circumcision is required, of all men, to join the covenant of the lord, yet paul contradicts that? these books are filled with such contradictions, even after thousands of years there is no agreement, not even amongst two brothers in christ. how is it that could be possible? if these oracles truly served as messengers of god and his word, why is it his word is different among them?

why is it that you cannot imagine someone who would serve god directly, wordlessly, without a temple?

>who the fuck wanks without porn?

this says more about you. there are plenty of ways, some dont involve touching yourself at all. just because porn is common now, dont be naive to think everyone who masturbates uses it.

it's like asking how can you eat without a fork?

>how come you name me a hylic etc

because i am not god but of him, its the same why i speak my ideas to you in a created language like english, tower of babel is a succinct allegory.

based on your example paul's verse in galatians overrides everything moises set forth in genesis regarding circumcision? why?

you call me spiritually stunted even though i said "following God's will is the most liberating thing I can think of" long before you did. but because i dont follow what the desert jews told me was god's will- you attack me. i have my covenant with the lord and no word of any oracle will guide me more than god's will directly

>why is it then that he would choose the jews as his people, and that only jewish oracles would he speak his word through?

Okay, first things first. Modern jews have zero relation to the ancient people from back then. I think there is this misconception that whenever we are talking about God's chosen people we are referring to the modern ones, we are not, lol no. Those people couldnt be further away from God if they tried. As to why them? The ancient tribe of Isrealites? Well God had to pick a group in order to begin his plan to reveal Himself, could have been any group and it just happened to be them, nothing special about that group in particular.

>it is you who cannot understand the concept of being tethered directly to god, and his creation without a manmade doctrine.

That would be closer to legalism, what you are describing, some people think that communion with God happens by praying X amount of times or by how many words their prayer has. Even Jesus Himself warned about praying like this in Matthew 6:7

>god and men existed before moses, and paul, and christ.

They werent necessarily doomed if thats what you are implying. I questioned that myself, as in, how can people that never heard about Christ be doomed through no fault of their own? as in pre-columbian natives, the answer is that you can be saved by following the gospel even if you havent heard of it, as most of it is strongly related to action towards love.

>why is it that moses said circumcision is required, of all men, to join the covenant of the lord, yet paul contradicts that?

Its up for the debate, according to scripture it was done as a sign of their covenant with God, but on a functional manner I think the idea was to discourage wanking, no joke, there was no lube back then, so they did it so men could have an easier time in staying focused on procreation. Also Paul is alluding to the OT on Deuteronomy 30 when saying its no longer needed, its not without precedent. Cont..

Cont... we both know circumcision has nothing to do with salvation, Paul knew it too. The new covenant does not requires it, as Christ abolished the law, Paul explains more about this in the same letter Galatians 5:13-18

>why is it that you cannot imagine someone who would serve god directly, wordlessly, without a temple?

Because it seems like a very easy way to slip into worshipping yourself instead of God, the problem with this is that its much easier to base your "moral code" around the exact way you are as of now, and call it a day. Spirituality requires self-sacrifice, whats the point if its going to be all comfy like that? You are meant to challenge yourself to rise to a better version to yourself in order to grow as a person.

>there are plenty of ways, some dont involve touching yourself at all.

Yeah but why? legit why would you nut with no stimulation? or are you saying you nut by just thinking of lewd thoughts? You failed the battle with lust either way, it makes no difference.

>i have my covenant with the lord and no word of any oracle will guide me more than god's will directly

I genuinely wish you well, I believe you. God reveals to us in mysterious ways, I too have had some mystical experiences like that as well. God has a plan for every one of us.

Below the title, there is a description in a script that translates to "Sachitananda" in English. The description is in a sans-serif font and is divided into two parts. The first part is a definition of the term "Sachitananda" as "Sankritananda" in Sanskrit, which represents "existence, consciousness, and bliss or truth, consciousness, bliss." The second part of the description is a description of the ultimate reality in Hinduism called "Brahman," which is described as an "epithet and description for the subjective experience of the ultimate, unchanging reality in Hinduism called Brahman."

At the top of the image, there is a circular logo with a sunburst design and the text "OM" in the center. Below the logo, there is a small text that reads "OM-EYE-NO-10" in a smaller font. The overall style of the image is formal and academic, with a focus on conveying information in a structured and organized manner.

Its easy as fuck to make DMT, you dont need to find it, and even less need to pay for it (as its going to be over priced anyways).

The biggest problem you'll face is finding the right root bark. Stop being a lazy fuck, and make some.

The image is a black and white illustration featuring three jester-like figures. They are standing in a line, facing each other, and appear to be in a playful or celebratory mood. Each figure is wearing a pointed hat, a pointed hat, and a pointed hat, and they are holding what appears to be a small, round object in their hands. The background is filled with stars and a door, suggesting a festive or celebratory atmosphere. At the top of the image, there is text that reads "THE MOMENT YOU REALIZE" and below it, "WE'RE ALL MERE JESTERS." The style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or retro illustration, with a cartoonish and exaggerated appearance.

The image is a meme featuring two separate scenes from the TV show "Breaking Bad." In the top left, a close-up of a person's hand holding a white object, possibly a phone, is overlaid with the text "THIS IS NOT METH." Below this, in the bottom right, a character is shown in a dynamic pose, with a hand raised and a fist clenched, suggesting a sense of anger or frustration. The character is wearing glasses and a dark shirt, and the background is blurred, focusing attention on the character's expression.

In the top right, a different scene is depicted. A character is shown in a more relaxed pose, sitting at a desk with a book and a computer mouse, seemingly engaged in work or study. The text "HOW IS IT NOT METH? METH IS METH!" is overlaid on the image, indicating a humorous or ironic comparison between the character's actions and the concept of methamphetamine. The character is wearing glasses and a dark shirt, and the background is a blurred image of a room with a desk and a window.

The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, using visual elements from the show to convey a humorous commentary on the character's actions and the concept of methamphetamine.

it only "fixes your depression" while youre tweaking out. you will come down and feel 1000x worse and more depressed than you were before. and its going to take several days before you feel normal again. and this is just assuming you take one dose. "oh but Ill just take more meth once I start feeling bad" congrats this is how you end up staying awake for days at a time, destroy your brain cells/life and become a zombie tweaker. "oh but Ill just be smart about using meth and moderate my use" literally no one actually does this, its too powerful for to interact with it responsibly. no one has ever made their life better in the long run through using meth. it should only be obtained if one has completely given up and has nothing to lose. but even those people are going to find out they did, indeed, have something to lose after all.

the reason some not all dmt is yellow is because it wasn't extracted properly and there was residual fat and tissue from the plant matter left

this wont kill you but its a shittier product

the reason dmt smells is because most people use white gas to extract it which stinks like moth balls

DMT is ruined and it will take 3 or 4 generations to restore whatever it actually brings.

For now the only people that can get DMT's true effects are young children. It's the trix cereal of drugs. (You) are too ripped away from present and have some sort of expectation of what you will see so your world is warped before your very fast trip begins.

Shrooms give you a good hour and a half to ready your mind. DMT is immediate, you will never enter into the true DMT realm, it has been turned into a clown show for you, a circus.

2. Hospitalbuilding cut in half endless zoom with very complicated things inside and entities

(I had neglected my health and needed to do something about it and I did)

3. Just looking around the things spawned in when I was looking and despawning when I didn't. I felt like made out of butter

4. Wasn't let in

(Knew I had to leave my ex they had nothing to say I guess)

5. Something pulled my hand into a beautiful tunnel full of transparent iridescent glyphs/marks dancing around us

(No idea still figuring it out)

It's all about where you are, what your intention is, how experienced and grounded the people you're with. And you need to be honest or they'll hate you had a dream there was a demon in my bathroom

i was walking past in the hall to do some other shit and i saw the demon briefly reveal itself in the mirror

so i pretended i didn't see it, did the other shit and as i was walking back i stopped in front of the open door and without looking inside i said

"i saw that shit by the way. you think i didn't notice? you think i wouldn't notice there's a fuckin' demon living in my house?"

then i turned and stared straight at the corner where the demon was in the mirror and it was just like a shadow embedded on the wall

so i took a deep breath and i screamed at it loud as fuck, like so loud my own fucking ears were ringing and the shadow distorted and peeled off the wall, the demon was pissed and it revealed itself to me, it was like a shadow demon with a jack o lantern head but i just kept screaming at it, like one long sustained really obnoxious bellow and it started screaming back at me, and i was screamin' at the demon and shaking my head with my tongue out this nigga rushed at me and i threw a punch and caved in it's face with one punch, then i ripped his fuckin head off and crushed the pumpkin and i told the demon "Stupid bitch. You think i can't smash a pumpkin? a normal ass human can smash a fuckin pumpkin." in a really obnoxious way where i sarcastically drew out every word and then i crumbled up the pumpkin and used it to wash my fuckin hands in the sink

and it was like the best soap i'd ever used, it had like incredible tonic effects on my skin

fuckass demon, the fuck outta here with that shit flashing me in my own fucking mirror like you doing something oooOoooOoooOOOooooOOo i'm a sneaky demon and i'm gonna spook you by showing up for a split second hahaha

bitch, i'm gonna turn you into soap

i'm gonna turn you into a pumpkin fuckin pie

i think at some point i told it i was gonna piss on it too

The livestream is 50 minutes long and would have been posted when it ended so that makes the start of the live right around 13:10 UTC . It sounds like there is a prop plane flying close around timestamps 3:30 and then again at roughly 10:30 (even closer? it's louder). Looking at flight radar there are a few candidates on 11/14 from 13:00 to 13:20 that would make sense like N107WT out of Appleton WI that circles around Waupaca Municipal Airport multiple times at the right timestamps and there is housing to the north of that airport. Could be a candidate area. Another could be N72RK out of Waterloo going to West Bend. Look on Flightradar on 11/14 from 13:00 to 13:50 Wisconsin time for other corresponding prop planes flying circles, close to airports etc. Putting this autism to work today baby. @James, if this is a joke you need to come out w it soon I don't want to dox you. The image is a stylized cartoon illustration featuring a man standing in the center. The man is holding a can in his right hand and has a surprised expression on his face. He is wearing a black t-shirt and blue jeans. Surrounding him is a circular pattern with various figures and symbols, including a dragon, a phoenix, and other mythical creatures. The background is a mix of colors, including shades of blue, orange, and red.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "Yeah, man, I tell ya what, man, that dang of samsara, man, you just go around and dagnum talk about forming dang of attachments mean you got yourself hung up on dakkhha, man. I'm talking about dang of hungry ghosts, man." The text is in a casual, conversational tone and is overlaid on the image in a way that suggests it is a commentary or explanation related to the visual content. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical cartoon, with a focus on humor and a light-hearted tone.

Everyone who complains about the engravings is a brain-dead NPC. Who gives a fuck? We don't even know the real purpose of the engravings, or why they would need to be made with super-advanced 3D-printing tech, or who made them, or when they were made. They could also be weathered through time.

A much better counter-argument is the fact that this guy has metal rings, which seem to be made by him, so that he may have made the rod, himself. But then you would need to believe that he convincingly faked his own death, or that he coincidentally was killed by some mysterious electricity accident unrelated to aliens entirely, etc.

Some people have asked why he doesn't immediately react to the blue light. But that light is from the drill. You can actually see the exact moment that the blue orb's reflection appears on the rod, a small dot in the lower left corner, somewhere around 22:10, I think.

The blue orb appears to actually be in the middle of the room, not attached on the wall or hanging on a tripod, etc. so it's definitely hard to explain. I think the video would be more convincing if the light were moving, because this would be harder to fake, but this isn't exactly proof that it's fake, especially since the orb may not need to move at all.

People are too quick to call this a hoax, and we also shouldn't assume it's real, either. I think we should find out where he is, see if he's dead, and how he died. Then we can see if the hoaxers think this guy committed suicide just to trick people into believing in aliens.

The image shows a cylindrical object with a metallic finish, possibly a piece of equipment or a model, resting on a wooden base. The object is encased in a blue plastic casing, which is slightly transparent, allowing a view of the metallic surface. The base of the object is made of wood and has a rectangular shape with a visible edge. On the base, there is a plaque with text, but the text is not legible due to the resolution of the image. The style of the image is a straightforward product photograph, intended to showcase the item clearly for potential buyers or viewers. The lighting is even, with no harsh shadows, and the background is plain and white, which highlights the object and its details.

The image is a screenshot of a Reddit post. The post is titled "Do women like rings on a man?" and is dated September 20, 2025. The post is a screenshot from a Reddit post, which is a platform where users can share and discuss various topics. The post is tagged with the Reddit username "op" and has a timestamp of 12:43:55.

be made of silver and has a unique design. The person's hand is positioned in such a way that the ring is clearly visible. The background of the image is blurred, but it seems to be a room with a light source, possibly a window.

The text in the image is in a language that appears to be English, and it discusses the topic of rings and their cultural significance. The text includes a quote from the user "op" and a statement from the user "Anonymous" about the ring. The text also mentions a user named "33691761" and a user named "33691761" who have made similar comments.

The overall tone of the post is humorous and seems to be a response to a question about the cultural preference for rings. The post is a part of the larger conversation on Reddit, where users share and discuss various topics.

The image is a black and white line drawing that features two figures. On the left, there is a figure with a stethoscope around the neck, indicating a medical or healthcare profession. The figure on the right has a head with a large, protruding object resembling a brain or a brain-like structure, which is colored in a bright orange. The figure on the right also has a tear or a tear-like mark on the forehead. Below the figures, the word "INOPERABLE" is written in capital letters, suggesting a negative or critical condition. The overall style of the image is simplistic and cartoonish, with a focus on the contrasting colors and the text.

I realized the other day that if James had been killed, then the only possible way for the government to avoid disclosure would be to take over James' account and act as if he had survived. If this theory is true, I would expect him to discredit himself soon, as this will prevent further inquiry. It's a shame so many retards will pat themselves on the back and say it was always a hoax when nothing indicated such a thing, and impersonating him would be trivial for the glowies.

Yet there's a great conspiracy currently ongoing to conceal UFOs, so this would simply be a part of that. Is it an invalid line of thought? What specifically is impossible about it? Is it even improbable? It would only be so if UFOs did not exist, but they do.

The image is a cartoon illustration featuring a character that appears to be a black and white cat with a large, expressive face. The cat is seated at a green wooden table, which is cluttered with various objects. The cat is holding a blue object in its hand, which seems to be a cigarette, and is smoking it. The table is covered with white napkins, and there are several cigarettes scattered around. The background is a warm, orange-yellow color, with a cloud-like pattern, suggesting a room with a window. The style of the image is reminiscent of classic Looney Tune characters, with a focus on the character's expressive face and the playful, cartoonish quality of the illustration.

The robot is predominantly white with red and blue accents, and it has a large, red and yellow head with a blue visor. It is equipped with a large, red and white shield on its back and a large, blue and red sword in its right hand. The creature surrounding the robot appears to be a mix of green and brown, with sharp teeth and sharp claws. The background is dark and filled with swirling, monstrous creatures that seem to be in a state of chaos. The overall atmosphere of the image is intense and dramatic, with the robot appearing to be the focal point amidst the chaos. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image.

The image is a black and white illustration featuring a stylized figure with a large, expressive face. The figure appears to be a humanoid with a head that is elongated and has a large, open mouth. The figure's eyes are closed, and its hands are raised to its face, as if in a state of shock or distress. The figure's body is elongated, and its limbs are extended outward, giving the impression of a dynamic pose.

In the background, there is a computer monitor displaying a red star with two red dots, which could symbolize a power button or a similar interface element. The monitor is situated on a desk, and there is a keyboard in front of the figure, suggesting that the figure might be in a workspace or a similar environment.

The overall style of the image is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the dramatic expression of the figure. The use of black and white gives the image a timeless and classic feel. There are no texts present in the image.

The image is a digital artwork depicting a scene in a dimly lit room with a dark, gothic aesthetic. At the center of the image, a figure is seated on a throne-like chair, wearing a long, dark robe with a hood that obscures the face. The figure's attire is adorned with intricate patterns and metallic accents. In their hands, they hold a book, which is open to a page with a greenish hue, suggesting the presence of a character or text.

To the left of the figure, there is a small, ornate lantern with a greenish light, casting a soft glow in the room. The lantern is placed on a table, which also holds a skull and a skull-shaped object with a glowing greenish light. The table is covered with a tablecloth and is positioned in front of a bookshelf filled with various books and other items.

The background is dark and moody, with a sense of mystery and intrigue. The overall color palette is dominated by shades of dark blues, greens, and golds, creating a somber and mysterious atmosphere. The artwork style is reminiscent of fantasy or science fiction genres, with a focus on character and setting rather than detailed realism.

Number 6 I suppose. After passing 5 I've given up so many personal possessions and changed my life to be more grounded. I moved from a big apartment with a fancy car down to a single bedroom in my family's house with no car and left my toxic job that consumed me 50-60 hours a week.

Nowadays I spend more time connecting with my loved ones and I'm looking for a part time job just to cover the basics. I feel a weight off my shoulders being away from the rat race of consumerism honestly. I do get bummed at times though, as my parents see me as a deadbeat lowlife for not wanting to work crazy hours and buy buy buy. I've tried explaining to my mom how I don't need materialism to be happy. That I love and appreciate her and that love for our loved ones is all that matters. She just assumed I'm on drugs and pushed me away, which hurts but the pain is only temporary as is all things.

I've never been more at peace than I am now, but I know I should make the effort to study and learn more so I can expand my abilities. Upon death I want to leave the cycle and travel distance worlds beyond, to have great adventures and live impactful lives. I do so now in the ways I can to those I care for, and I hope to do more when my time comes. Though I suppose I'll need to resolve the schizo/autistic mind that I have first lol

The figure is positioned in the center of the image, with a halo-like glow emanating from the top left corner, which is illuminated by a red light. This halo-like glow creates a dramatic effect and draws attention to the figure. The background is dark, which contrasts with the figure and accentuates her features.

There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is reminiscent of digital art, with a focus on the use of color, lighting, and composition to create a striking visual effect. The overall mood of the image is intense and dramatic, with a strong emphasis on the figure's expression and the halo-like glow.

The image is a black and white comic strip featuring four panels, each depicting a different character and their dialogue. The characters are shown in a three-quarter view, with the top and bottom panels showing the characters' heads and the middle panel showing their full bodies.

In the first panel, a bald man with a shaved head and a beard is shown with his head in profile. He is wearing glasses and a black jacket with a white collar. The speech bubble above his head reads, "Merely matter is destroying the Earth. Nothing."

In the second panel, a man with short hair and a beard is shown with his head in profile. He is wearing a black jacket with a white collar and a black vest. The speech bubble above his head reads, "Humans are destroying the Earth. Powerful changes are happening on Earth."

In the third panel, a man with short hair and a beard is shown with his head in profile. He is wearing a black jacket with a white collar and a black vest. The speech bubble above his head reads, "He could just as easily curse not to."

In the fourth panel, a man with short hair and a beard is shown with his head in profile. He is wearing a black jacket with a white collar and a black vest. The speech bubble above his head reads, "You want to know what happened to the Earth? Just say 'I don't know.'"

Throughout the comic strip, the characters appear to be discussing the state of the Earth and the impact of human actions on it. The dialogue suggests a sense of urgency and concern for the environment.

The image is a stylized cartoon illustration featuring a character with a surprised expression. The character has a large, expressive face with large, round eyes and a small, thin mouth. The character's hair is blonde and appears to be styled in a short, straight cut. The character is wearing a bright orange prison uniform with a hood that is partially drawn back, revealing a small portion of the character's face. The character's right hand is raised, with the fingers curled into a fist. The background is a dark, indistinct color, which contrasts with the bright orange of the character's uniform. There is no text present in the image. The style of the image is cartoonish and expressive, typical of animated characters.

You can't force yourself to have them, you can only start doing spiritual work and know it eventually happens. Or life forces it on you without your consent. I had a wake up call in the form of multiple severe traumas that forced me out of conventional society mentally, physically, and emotionally. My life had to hit a huge bottom that forced me to my knees in the most sincere prayer I ever said. In that instant the gates opened and I was a new man. Not a good one or sane one (yet) but a new one. Been about 6 or 7 years since

The image is a tarot card featuring a winged figure with a halo, holding a trumpet. The figure is depicted in a dynamic pose, with one hand on the trumpet and the other hand raised as if blowing into it. The trumpet is a prominent feature of the card, suggesting a theme of music or performance.

The background of the card is a light blue sky with fluffy white clouds, and there is a sense of movement and energy conveyed by the clouds. Below the figure, there is a scene of a group of people, some of whom are holding hands and appear to be dancing or celebrating. The people are depicted in a joyful and energetic manner, which contrasts with the serious and contemplative mood of the figure.

At the bottom of the card, the word "JUDGEMENT" is written in bold, capitalized letters, indicating the card's title. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of the Tarot deck, with its distinct symbols and imagery. The colors used are bright and vibrant, with the figure's clothing and the trumpet in particular being in bold shades of yellow and red. The image is a clear and detailed representation of the tarot card, designed to convey its meaning and symbolism.

Drugs. I wouldn't recommend that route though. It is the end all. You either come out realizing what happened and understand the world, or you get stuck in it and believe that is the world. Skydiving or something similar might help, but you might have a spiritual ending rather than awakening. Near death experiences are the #1. I almost died from the flu around 7 years old and my parents were discussing taking me to the hospital and decided they can't afford it. They were basically saying I might die and they accepted it so they didn't have to mess up their own lives. I remember realizing what was going on and that they didn't really give a fuck about me and I started having a fever dream immediately where everything looked like it was melting and I started throwing up a shit load which was weird cause all I ate or drank for 2 days was a little bit of juice and a can of soup. After I finished puking I felt great. I started running around and then had to puke again immediately, and went to sleep. After I woke up the world was a different place. I no longer see objects, I see what they are made of. I don't see houses, I see the corpses of trees arranged into shelter next to their living "relatives". I don't see good and evil, I see honesty and dishonesty. Evil wants to keep you blindfolded while leading you into the knife aimed at them. Stay spiritually good and don't seek anything beyond that. Your life will be what it should be. I get envious sometimes, but I know that the situation I am envious of is making somebody else happy and that makes me happy which makes my envy disappear. Just be nice to people that deserve it bros. Don't try to stand on their shoulders cause "they don't mind" if you do. Stand next to them. Good people are why this world exists outside of hell.

We can't rely on teaching all of the peoples of the planets to meditate 10 hours a day. While I get your disdain, and acknowledge the importance of meditation, we must endeavor to spread the benefits of meditation to people who don't do it from the minds of those who, and it is possible with targeted brain cell development and destruction.

We all share one mind in a way. Any brain cell growth and death in you affects every other thinking being alive and dead.

It's great to have specialized meditators on the planets but most people don't have that kinda spare time or income, focus or mental fortitude.

If you don't really like other people and don't want to spread benefits to them, remember that, A.) Spiritual work pays, The Almighty will remember your contribution, you're not expected to do it for charity, and B.) It will help spread all occult powers. Each change resonates in the unconscious and sometimes higher in beings, getting that much closer to conscious as they're subjected to it more and more. Much more interesting occult things can result from such innocuous seeming occult work.

Anonymous Mon 17 Nov 2025 23:06:29 No.41510731 Report

>>41491250

Very extremely absolutely fucking carefully, that's how.

All beings are omnipresent in soul (thought) throughout Creation in a way, so in a way even things outside of you are inside of you as well. It then becomes necessary if you are to discern whether the thing is MORE inside of you, or more outside of you. This same line of thinking can apply to other occult things; when you imagine an alien of a certain type near you, you're psychic pulling at the souls of similar, and particularly the most similar, soul to arrive in that place...how successful you are at that depends on the instance, but technically that being you think is there is at least a tiny bit there.

What to go down this road without delusions and other bullshit? Don't do it unless you get real world results out of it. I'm still alive because I saw attempts on my life in the future, and my occult practice has aided me in other ways, and it helps me to feel better and have fun every day, all without negative consequences (I already had lots of time to meditate because of health issues). Success at "ordinary" life is smiled upon by the Almighty, fulfilling NPC societal obligations is smiled upon by the Almighty, so you don't need and shouldn't sacrifice your performance there for occult study anyway.

If ever there was a hermit that was an absolute genius at a practical trade high in demand like rocket engineering, but instead they spent their time praying, the Almighty would very much like to see their prayer amount to more than all those rockets they could have made. Sort of, The Almighty doesn't give a shit about rockets, but I hope my point is made.

If you're already a loser, why not be an occult loser? Got spare time? Prayer doesn't need to take more than a few seconds.

Psychically it's dicey saying you, "Don't know." Satan insists, and is correct, that your unconscious at least knows all, and will weaken your powers for lying. Don't run into traffic because you know all.

Why are you framing the infographic as bad because people want their perspective/ego to have a more pleasant time. A more healthy/zen time? Furthermore, even outside of NDEs there's kind of a vibe of "the guys upstairs care about us." Us, as in beings. An ego.

[30 / 4]The image is a stylized cartoon illustration depicting two men in a traditional Japanese sumo wrestling match. The man on the left is wearing a blue and white striped kimono with a black belt, and the man on the right is in a brown kimono with a floral pattern. Both are in a fighting stance, with their fists clenched and their eyes focused on each other. The background shows a large crowd of spectators, some of whom are holding up their hands in the air, suggesting excitement or anticipation. The setting appears to be a traditional Japanese arena, with a large mountain in the distance and a setting sun casting a warm glow over the scene. The image is vibrant and colorful, with a warm, golden hue that suggests either sunrise or sunset. There are no discernible texts within the image.

Having a really hard time choosing between these:

Logically I connect with Buddhism way more. I feel no contradictions or anything of the like in its core tenets - they all feel like incredibly natural points and follow one after the other based on the goal we are trying to achieve. I don't really have any gripes with nirvana because I don't think I'm going to get there in all honesty in this lifetime but if I can get one step closer then that's enough for me. It's practice feels like it produces a clear and immediate effect. It doesn't promise what it isn't.

But I feel like I don't know something about Buddhism, like how can a philosophy be so perfect , I understand the diff branches and how weird it gets - but if you stay on Mahayana and stick to the basics / "solved buddhism" for the most common problems humans face - I haven't really encountered anything too weird.

Christianity has a better culture in my opinion, advent , christmas, I love listening to christian conversations from Bishops/Priests and scholars. But the fundamental tenet of Jesus being God is riddled with holes imo - Jesus the man may have existed, but the degree to which the events were mythologized is probably sky high. I relate more to a monist emanationism - where Christ is essentially the holy spirit within the man Jesus (the mascot in some sense) and cultivating the holy spirit as much as possible.

But this is heretical or highly confusing to the average christian / essentially I would be hiding my true feelings towards the issue. But there are mystics within christianity (like meister Eckhart) who saw the big picture that I more closely relate too so I feel some kinship/a sense that I can make it work.

What should I do?

There's truth in all religions, but it's usually hidden in the various mystical sects that don't get the limelight; what's popular is rarely correct. The real issue sounds to me like you still depend on external sources to do the thinking for you. Rather than seeking truth, you're seeking comfort and easy answers.

You could probably look at Jesus as someone who achieved the things you wish to achieve from Buddhism and follow his example to an extent, but it's like you said; christians will treat you as a heretic and you won't really get to enjoy a lot of what chistianity has to offer. I wouldn't advise OP to go down the left hand path if he doesn't even know what the right hand stuff is. Middle pillar is ideal, but he seems to like the rather bland conformity in both systems he mentions. Something right-handed is better; more devotional with little thinking is better for such his quality of mind and temperament. Just sticking to a rote, traditional, simple system is all anyone really needs. Saints used to reach enlightenment by just saying one prayer over and over all day long for decades until their mind broke open to the Infinite.

OP, if you choose either system here is what I recommend reading:

The character is wearing a headband and has a hand on its chest, which is raised in a gesture that could be interpreted as a prayer or a sign of respect.

Above the character's head, there is a thought bubble containing a thought bubble with the text "Forgive me Jews. I've been a bad guy." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is colored in black, which stands out against the white background of the image.

Below the character, there is another thought bubble with the text "I've been a bad guy." This thought bubble is also in a bold, sans-serif font and is colored in black, matching the color of the text above.

The background of the image is plain white, which contrasts with the brown skin tone of the character and the black text, making the characters and the text the focal points of the image. The overall style of the image is humorous and satirical, with a focus on the character's apology and the thought bubbles, which seem to be a play on the concept of forgiveness and the nature of the character's actions.

>If you discard the midwit stuff in Christianity

If everyone around you is a midwit and only praises the midwit stuff , you're probably gonna have to lie and keep parts of yourself hidden which is a mental weight for no reason. Combine that with the fact that the mystical / esoteric changes the very idea of Jesus, would you really even be following the same thing at that point?

Everything I've read about big-brained Christianity is that if you read the saints who dedicated their lives to understanding what Jesus actually meant and interpret everything in the best most generous way possible, you end up with a few scraps of entry level Buddhism.

[11 / 3]The image is a panoramic photograph of a large, intricately carved sand sculpture. The sculpture is composed of numerous figures, some of which appear to be human, while others are animals. The figures are arranged in a symmetrical pattern, with the central figure being the tallest and most prominent. This central figure is flanked by two smaller figures on either side, creating a balanced composition. The sculpture is set against a natural backdrop of trees and a clear sky. In the foreground, there is a small blue object, possibly a bench or a piece of equipment, and a person wearing a hat is visible in the distance. The overall style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the detailed craftsmanship of the sand sculpture.

I am asking this here because I think that there may be just the right person with the right words around.

But basically, I have recently been trying to leave NEETdom and I have been struggling with the consequential quantization of my time.

Before, it was sort of peaceful.

I did whatever I wanted and I felt fairly content, a lot of the time.

Now, things are zooming by. It feels like I have become a kleptomaniac for time, like no day has enough hours.

I can't do what I want and I fear spiritual injury from that, given long enough. The deadlines and insecurity about the future give me anxiety.

I would like to know about any practices, sentiments and ideas that you good people have encountered, which may help with situations such as mine.

Seek out pain and suffering and challenge

When you are under extreme pain time will slow down and every second will feel like a minute, every minute like an hour

When you are under extreme challenge with consequences your brain will fire on all pistons and you will feel mental clarity like you would never believe

I have this thing called a painbrush, it's basically a toothbrush but j use it just on this rotten tooth of mine. I found it is better than coffee and cigarettes for keeping me awake when using. If you use too much pain your nerves can swell though, i had the half of my face swell up for about 30 min Overlaid on the image is a text that reads "I can't read!" in a stylized font, with the letters appearing to be slightly blurred. Well, for me, I try to just have x,y,z things i want to get done for the day and after I accomplish them I can chill and be satisfied..a big one being working out. Usually as long as I get the workout I planned in then I can chill and feel I did good for the day.

I think if you are trying to build a business or make as much money as possible and have the mentality "time is money" then the desperation you are talking about is probably useful although its a stressful way to live.

If you've known the NEET life then you know what its like to be okay with just NEETing it up. So, maybe just try to channel that carefree attitude toward how you view things without actually sitting on your ass all day, and be grateful for the small improvements you make instead of getting too much ahead of where ur at.

To gain satisfaction look at all the progress you've made compared to your past self, don't compare yourself to others, and "give yourself a break" when you need to. Tomorrow's never promised, it really isn't, the best thing is being able to sit in peace with yourself and your life now. If you believe in anything spiritual have faith and trust that things are coming along at just the right time...there is so much beyond our control, wouldn't you agree? I try to have faith in the forces outside myself that are way beyond my control are working with me build my life little by little...im not doing it on my own, ya know?

Or our perception of time was adjusted.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a distinctive hairstyle and a distinctive headband. The character has a serious expression and is looking directly at the viewer. The character's eyes are a striking shade of purple, and they have a sharp, angular face with a prominent nose. The character's hair is a mix of orange and brown, and it is styled in a way that it falls over the character's shoulders. The character is wearing a black jacket with a red collar, and the jacket has a visible zipper. The character's hands are clasped together in front of them, and they are positioned in a way that suggests a sense of determination or focus. The background of the image is dark and somewhat cloudy, with a cityscape visible in the distance. There is a watermark on the image that reads "DAVID ARSENIU," indicating the artist or creator of the artwork. Yep.

I used to have a time sigil, that lets you “slinky” time, it’s very possible. I’ve lost the sigil, but you can do it. Use a swirl loop in the middle, that was an aspect of the sigil, you can crunch working time and that will stretch non-working time so you can do more things. My advice would be to kinda “set it and forget it” but “doing it live” is also possible and how I did it. The shape of a snail shell, slow, the shape of a whirlpool, fast.

Good luck, I stopped using it because it was actually fucking working really well and other people around me noticed and it was almost like lucid dreaming where I did it so much that I just kinda stopped doing it.

[7 / 1]The image depicts a scene that appears to be a mystical or magical setting. In the center, there is a large, glowing crystal ball with a translucent, ethereal appearance. Surrounding the crystal ball are several candles, some of which are lit, casting a warm glow on the surrounding area. The candles are placed on a wooden table, which is adorned with ornate candlesticks.

In the background, there are several ghostly figures that resemble human beings, but their forms are blurred and indistinct. They are standing behind the crystal ball, appearing to be in a state of contemplation or waiting. The background is dark, with a starry sky and a faint glow that suggests the presence of a celestial body or a cosmic event.

The overall color palette of the image is dominated by shades of blue and white, with the warm glow of the candles and the ethereal quality of the crystal ball creating a contrast. The lighting in the image is soft and ethereal, enhancing the mystical atmosphere. The style of the image is reminiscent of fantasy or supernatural themes, with a focus on the interplay between light, shadow, and the supernatural.

any real mediums here? Anonymous Tue 18 Nov 2025 15:35:33 No.41515527
ViewReplyOriginalReport

Quoted By: >>41515542

I don't think the information I'm seeking is something their deceased family member can provide and spirit guides likely have their own agenda. It doesn't have to be evil or malicious, every system has their own narrative and agenda. Certain sensitive topics can lead to doctored and carefully crafted answers or intentionally vague answers to secure and further their interests. Even the most ethical and benevolent entities would do so to protect a certain interest.

Therefore, whatever is working with a medium must be:

- a) knowledgeable and experienced in the field of inquiry(or have access to such information)
- b) willing to answer only truths and in detail(if possible sharing same goals with the inquirer)
- c) able to tolerate questions, suspicions, and doubts
- d) uncompromised as an entity

I don't think most of their sources would have enough access to give the answers to the extent I want. For example, you would have to ask the CIA director to really know what is going on beneath.

You would have to ask a General to understand the modern warfare, tactics, and logistics. You'd have to interview a prominent banker to know what's actually working behind the scenes. You'd have to ask a particular insider to get the real geopolitical landscape.

You can still ask an average person on these and still get an answer that might not be false but it won't really educate you.

Can a medium's deceased dog or family member really answer my questions after this post? I don't think so

-true history of mankind including previous human civilizations and alien involvements

-true galactic political situations involving alien factions and earth

-truthful and detailed map of powers that rule on earth (there are 100+ different versions of conspiracies out there) and the truthful history of such powers and literal list of individuals involved and something that is closest to their organizational chart

-truthful and detailed map of DUMBS activities and occult child sacrifice/trafficking networks

-how astral or spiritual dimensional warfare works. how they actually battle each other.if astral bodies or souls cannot be killed how do they even fight? how do they achieve their aims?

-how to avoid auto-reincarnations and reincarnation traps

-information about me: if I have any allies. if I have any potential allies. if i have anything.

if i have any resources up there. what system/network/infrastructure/organization if I am part of anything and if they are in agreement with my views and aims

-how economy works up there. if there is no currency, how do they trade services and resources(energy, soul?, manifestation creative energy, idk) how do they resolve competing interests? how do they measure value of services and exchanges without any unit?

-philosophy, economics, metaphysics of superior civilizations or soul-realm soul-beings

-soul-realm: their political and administrative system and process of internal affairs

I don't want books, conspiracy theorists, hypnotherapists, and new age workshop charlatans, or occult insiders. So many people say X is this, that is A and that is B without any real evidence just because they read some books written by other humans based on their own mental faculties. It's impossible to find the actual truth.

That is why I am now thinking of seeing mediums who at least come into real contacts with real spirits if they happen to be legitimate mediums.

Thanks

I do alot of research with actual mediums. I do psychiatric and behavioral evaluations on mediums in order to find consistencies in date on their psychology. I then hook them up to EEG's and measure their brainwaves while they are utilizing their "ability" to find correlates. Some of the ones I work with frequently I test using a technique where I draw an image on a piece of paper and then in our interview sessions monitor to see if they pull the image. The actual ones nail it.

Lots of histrionic larping women but I have found quite a few subjects that I believe actually can do it. There's a lot of research going into mediums right now as we have the tools to measure their abilities at the moment. Really fascinating stuff. There's a bunch of psychological and background history congruency amongst actual mediums and their brain waves are usually bundling in the same amplitude and frequency when they are receiving information.

As for the "entity" very few of them have occult beliefs. The majority of them look at their information as some kind of download from their higher self, the environment, or collective consciousness. They're usually apprehensive to think that they're contacting an entity unless it's the dead. Most of them have experiences with communicating with the deceased.

There was one session with one medium who began receiving information about an ancient race of people that were imprisoned by these large spaceships. Antedeluvian race of farmers. Said that the ships showed up and hovered and nobody cared they just went about business as normal, then the ships took them and imprisoned them in a different place amongst the stars and left. She said they're always watching and that they'll come back to punish us.

I was a little shocked by what she was relating as this wasn't her normal MO, she doesn't really talk about aliens or anything like that most of her experience is with the deceased, and the story reminded me of gnostic and enochian mythology. The session shook her and I believed her but I didn't believe whatever was giving her the information.

Thats about the only stuff ive ever got from a medium in my research with them that pertains to your lines of inquiry. They all have differing beliefs on whats on the other side and how souls operate.

One of the things you'll notice across mediums is their schema or symbol sets deviate but the contextual or essential information stays the same. So for example a different medium may have related the same story about an antedeluvian race but instead of spaceships may have described angels or archons. This is something you have to be very aware of when getting information from mediums or else you will misinterpret what theyre saying.

Obviously we all know that we shouldn't be around women who are menstruating. Our ancestors knew that the correct thing to do was to lock them up and keep them away from the world during this demonic period

But, in this backwards world, we're forced to be around them. So what exactly happens, and how does one shield themselves from their demonic energy?

The image features a stylized depiction of a human uterus, which is the central focus. The uterus is depicted with a radiant, glowing light emanating from its center, creating a halo effect. Surrounding the uterus are intricate, swirling patterns in shades of pink and purple, with a central swirl that appears to be a stylized flower or flower-like structure.

Above the uterus, the text "my uterus" is written in a flowing, cursive font, with the letters "m" and "y" in a lighter shade of purple and the rest of the letters in a darker shade of purple. The text is positioned in the upper half of the image, with the uterus and the swirling patterns below it.

The background of the image is a gradient of pink and purple hues, with a subtle sparkle effect that gives the image a dreamy, ethereal quality. The overall style of the image is artistic and spiritual, with a focus on the symbolism of the human uterus and the concept of self-awareness or spiritual growth.

Now, with industrialisation, the middle class has their basic needs sorted so now they can think about enlightenment.

Women are unironic chakra vampires that need human semen (soul energy) to survive, diagram of uterus is the image of apostolic baphomet, look it up, complete with horns and all.

When you have sex, part of your soul is being lost on ejaculation, think about it, you cum inside and the cum never comes out, soon enough it is absorbed by the vagina (baphomet devouring soul fragments), but how? It has no mouths, yet it happens. Semen is the vagina's (apostolic baphomet) preferred goyslop, without semen women (demonkind) dies of starvation, which is why women seek sex and always want you to cum inside for an 'unexplainable reason', part of the reason this happens is based on the fact there is no superior entity for them to rely on once their interior energy is depleted, think of it like a really big tank with only one mouth on it that slowly leaks out. They replenish their inner energy by absorbing it from men, because ultimately they have no souls which they can rely on to produce this energy themselves. If they do not get enough energy, they bleed. just look it up, pregnant women (women that have been cummed in and had their energy needs temporarily sated) do not have periods at all, nothing, blood simply does not come out. Yet a woman that does not have this 'suddenly' bleeds and feels ill for several days in a row with pain and weakness and bleeding. Normal?

It is men, who want children. When a man wins a lottery, he's more likely to start a family. When a woman wins the lottery, she divorces and remains single

>But, you seem to hate life. So keep your semen.

Semen Retention is very based. Instead of ejaculating into a modern cunt's hole, it's better to preserve the sex energy.

The image is a candid photograph of a group of people gathered in a dark setting, possibly a theater or a cinema, as indicated by the presence of a screen and the audience's posture. The individuals are seated and appear to be in a state of laughter, with some holding hands and others with their arms around each other. The laughter is directed towards the right side of the image, suggesting that the source of the laughter is not visible. The individuals are wearing casual clothing, and the lighting is dim, contributing to the overall atmosphere of the scene. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image. The style of the photograph is informal and seems to capture a spontaneous moment of joy or amusement among the group.

[3 / 1]The image is a digital composite of a scene that appears to be set in an office environment. In the center of the image, a man is depicted with a large, fiery, and burning head, which is the most prominent feature. He is wearing a chef's hat and apron, and his face is obscured by the flames. The man is holding a frying pan with food on it, which is also on fire.

Surrounding the central figure are four people, who are seated at a table. They are laughing and appear to be enjoying the scene. The people are dressed in business attire, with one person wearing a red blazer and another in a black suit. The background of the image is a simple office setting with a window and a wall-mounted light fixture.

The image has a humorous and exaggerated quality, with the flames and the man's fiery head creating a surreal and dramatic effect. The colors in the image are warm and vibrant, with the fiery head contrasting sharply against the more muted tones of the office environment. The overall mood of the image is light-hearted and playful, with the central figure seemingly having a moment of triumph or surprise.

I have been doing some basic research on various occult practices like: Remote viewing, astral projection, and various forms of magick and I have noticed that some advice is repeated amongst them. It seems that some practices just serve as universal building blocks or provide a good baseline for (almost) all paths or traditions.

So far I think I have identified 3:

1. Some form of meditative practice

2. Lucid dreaming or dream journaling (a general awareness of dreams)

3. Developing prophantasia or the ability to hallucinate (oddly enough)

Is there anything else you would add or anything in my list you wish to expand upon?

The image is a digital graphic with a white background and a black border. At the top, there is a red and white logo that reads "Association of German National Jews." Below the logo, there is a large text in bold, capitalized letters that reads "Jews for Hitler." The text is in a sans-serif font.

In the center of the image, there is a cartoon-style illustration of two men. The man on the left is wearing a black hat with a yellow star and a black shirt with a red star on the left side. He has a beard and is smiling. The man on the right is wearing a brown suit with a red and white striped tie and a black hat with a yellow star. He has blue eyes and is smiling.

The text "Jews for Hitler" is highlighted in red, drawing attention to it. The text is in a smaller font size compared to the main text, and it is placed in the center of the image, slightly to the right of the center.

The overall style of the image is cartoonish and satirical, with a focus on the juxtaposition of the two men and the text. The use of bold and capitalized text, along with the highlighted text, suggests a political or historical commentary on the topic of Jews and Hitler.

Zionist Jews wanted to get rid of the majority of Orthodox Jews. Since they were at odds when it came to creation of Israel, a Jewish country for Jews. Orthodox Jews didn't want that, Zionists did. There is also an occultist factor at play here, as the Jewish blood sacrifice is needed to create Israel.

Zionist funded NSDAP to get rid of the Orthodox Jews from countries like Poland, Lithuania, Ukraine and Russia. (This will cause brownie neonazi seething but yeah your savior of the white race was a kike puppet). Zionists succeeded in their plans, as you can probably imagine.

Zionist won:

>Israel exists

>Holocaust victim card

>Jews are untouchable everywhere, you get ostracized for saying anything bad about them

>Jews hold the highest positions in power

>Europe is castrated and flooded with undesirable genetic element

>America went to hell and is a mixed shithole full of degeneracy

The image is a screenshot of a Twitter conversation, featuring two individuals. The conversation is in a text format, with the first tweet from the left reading "@arvansing88 Today at 9:09 PM: you literally attack people for not being white when you're Indian, how does that make any sense?" and the second tweet from the right reading "@arvansing88 Today at 9:10 PM: me and you look similar you are blinded by the /wish lies that we are not." The conversation appears to be a response to a tweet from the user "@arvansing88" who is identified as "arvansing88" and is asking about the reasons behind attacking people for not being white when they are Indian. The user "@arvansing88" is responding to the tweet by saying that it is not a matter of race, but rather a matter of the user's own beliefs and actions. The user "@arvansing88" is also responding to the user's statement about being blind to the user's own beliefs and actions. The conversation is set against a dark background with a purple hue, and the user's profile picture is visible at the top of the tweet.

He lost the war and had beend supported by Rothschild.

But they also didn't sell everything. They stopped supplying Germany with Potassiumnitrate, I think it was. It was something nitric. So they invented the Haber-Bosch procedure to pull bombs out of thin air.

Hitler also tried to win the war. But he lost despite the Germans. He also said in a speech that the Jews would have exterminated the white races regardless if whether he had stood up, or not.

So yes. He did fight.

Also...

The image is a screenshot of a text message conversation, likely from a messaging application, with a focus on a message that reads, "This is what they get for trying to steal our Hitler." The message is accompanied by a black and white image of a statue of a man, which is likely a reference to Joseph Goebbels, a German Nazi and propaganda minister. The text is in a language that appears to be German, and the conversation is taking place in a chat room. The chat room is labeled "Anonymous" and has a user ID of "6wx3EcY". The chat window is open, and the conversation is ongoing. The timestamp of the message is 06/20/25/14:14:17.

The image is a close-up photograph of a man's face, focusing on his upper body. The man has a receding hairline and is wearing a dark suit with a white shirt and a red tie. His hair is light-colored, and he appears to be looking off to the side with a serious expression. The background is blurred, but it suggests an indoor setting with a dark, possibly reflective surface. There is a faint, indistinct pattern of what could be a curtain or a wall in the background. The man's face is the central focus of the image, and there are no discernible texts or logos in the photograph. The style of the image is a standard portrait, with a shallow depth of field that blurs the background while keeping the man in sharp focus.

i dont know, intralifeepigenetics is still pretty new. perhaps you can figure it out, the exact shape of the ritual is very important, you cant just cut the tip off, you have to harm the infant severely right after a long lovely hug from mother. or to say it another way, the direct cause is severe trauma well serum oxytocin is very high. the form of this function, i believe, the genes protecting the child from a life of domestic trauma by deactivating the part of the brain that feels about thinking and thinks about feeling.... but this is not dissimilar to the "addict gene" in which people can never achieve satiation, its usually highlighted in drug abusers but the prime addiction in mankind is eating, and the addict gene, like noforebrain gene, is turned on when someone goes through 40+ days of severe starvation but doesn't die, and in function what happens is the little sensation that tells you you've had enough, you're full, you're sated, shuts off.... forever... i've looked into this later one more than the foreskin one, and imo, in order to reverse the deactivation of the satiation gene - if you were to compare normal eating to near starvation and call this one step down - imo you would need to go one like step up from normal satiation into superabundant satiation.

so, novel speculation, but you would probably require infants reared with serum oxytocin high and whatever the like (2 steps up for one step down cause normal is not enough harm, you need abundant growth) juxtaposition state of high serum cortisol is.

i've not really speculated on that one much before, forgive the ramble

Both Hitler and Eva died simultaneously likely by suicide in an orchestrated event. It's interpreted as a ritualistic surrender to dark forces, driven by fear of accountability, public humiliation, and the collapse of their world.

There's a moment where demons awaited their deaths, ready to consume their negative energy.

The act was not spontaneous, rather, it was influenced by demonic whispers, "Come on, just take your life... it's time."

This indicates that they were spiritually collected, not merely killed. They were being taken. Their souls became trophies for the demons. Yep, they were fighting over Hitler's soul, treating his massive negative karma as "trophy" energy.

He was shot.

His commander's tent was shelled and he was so close after leaving it blew the sleeve of his jacket off.

He went to prison but it was not as bad a sentence as it could have been..

The people loved him.

Animals loved him.

I bet God loved him.

The image is a cover of a book titled "THE TECHNOLOGICAL SOCIETY" by Jacques Ellul. The title is prominently displayed in large, bold, white letters at the top of the cover. Below the title, there is a subtitle in smaller white text that reads "A penetrating analysis of our technological civilization." The author's name, "Jacques Ellul," is written in white text at the bottom of the cover.

The cover features a photograph of a vintage tape recorder with two yellow reels. The tape recorder is set against a black background, and the reels are positioned on the left side of the image. The tape recorder has a white label with the word "XEROX" printed on it. The overall style of the image is simple and minimalist, with a focus on the title and the photograph of the tape recorder.

Did you know you would stop using V and F altogether? Studies show humans developed the ability of speaking with these two sounds after the development of agriculture. Jaw structure and tongue posture in humans from before the middle ages made it difficult to use V and F. Romans didn't have a V for example, all Latin words with a V were actually spoken with a U

So, Ulpis (Fox), uini, uidi, uinci.

Z sounds were also rarely used.

sit and watch a stream (of water, you nerd), humans are born with very simple baseline brains, it's only through over-stimulation that people start whining ("I need this" or "Wahhh, I'm bored"), Many years ago I took a 4 day break from internet, televisions etc, only electronics I used was household (water heater, stovetop, fridge) and it felt, perfect, total calm etc.

As for diet, understand that there are only about 7 different foods eaten worldwide for sustenance, rice, wheat, corn, potato's, meat, dairy and plantains in certain regions.

the only difference between clean, whole food and "omg that will give you ass cancer" is some company covering it in some oil, adding preservatives so it lasts on the shelf and putting their logo on it (for example, potato vs potato chips, one is seen as fine, and the other is seen as bad because it has oil and salt added, that's the only difference.)

Muscle meat is kind of over-rated as everything you eat muscle meat for is also in liver or kidneys, with the difference being the liver or kidneys contains much more micronutrients.

So, a carbohydrate source (fruit is probably preferable, but I have no problems with rice, potato and wheat) and for the 2 other macronutrients (fat, protein) eggs or oily fish for fat (and protein) and liver (for protein and all other micronutrients), it's really quite simple.

1. Buy a reverse osmosis water filter
2. Try to base your diet around meat and fruit as much as possible, preferably organic. Herbal teas and essential oils are not memes they can help with many problems if you research the right ones to fix X problem.
3. Indoor rock climbing, or outdoor if you have the guts for natural terrain. This will activate muscles gym equipment never could, and provide you with more of the universal strength trades people have.
4. Ditch tradition mattresses for a thinner one (10cm or less) on wood, this will correct your back, try it before you dismiss it. Purchase a de/humidifier if you ever have lung pain, hayfever or sleep issues (especially if you live in different land/climate to your generic lineage.

5. Limit tech and chemical based cleaning products in your home. To do this I purchased more natural products and picked up new hobbies that don't involve screentime like Lego, Hiking and Reading.

Thats basically it, try not to fall for memes like kale juice and not using sunscreen as an anglo living in a hot climate.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that resembles a frog with a humanoid body. The frog is depicted in a casual pose, with one hand holding a fork and the other a drink, suggesting a relaxed or leisurely atmosphere. The frog is wearing a white shirt with a collar and blue shorts, and it has a green body with a white belly. The frog's eyes are wide open, and it has a surprised expression.

In the background, there is a dark, rocky terrain with a faint glow, possibly indicating a nighttime setting. The frog is standing on what appears to be a flat surface, possibly a rock or a flat surface with a slight incline.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "This creature has adapted to the crushing pressure and oppressive darkness." The text is in white, contrasting with the dark background, and is positioned at the bottom of the image. The text is centered and appears to be a caption or a title for the illustration. The overall style of the image is cartoonish and humorous, with a focus on the frog's surprised expression and the text that adds a humorous twist to the scene.

No. Advice like "Go live in the wild and hunt animals" has already been ignored on the grounds that it's illegal, when it's some of the better advice. If you're too much of a pussy to go out and do it anyway, then you deserve what you get.

You can also get good results from the opposite: a very unnatural lifestyle with no legal risk, but spending lots of money and doing lots of research. But instead of "I can't, that's illegal" faggots will say "I can't afford that, suggest something cheaper".

Humans evolved to be the dominant life on Earth by using our intelligence, not by being strong and fast or having great senses. We use our intelligence to understand the world and manipulate our environment to benefit us, which has allowed us to spread to the entire planet instead of simply being limited to where we are most comfortable. Naturalist fallacy is an argument that humans need to live a more "natural" life by going against human nature and deliberately doing things stupidly.

The naturalist is a moron that thinks making something out of wood is good because trees were put here by God for us to make use of, but taking rocks, crushing them into powder, mixing them together with water, and letting them re-harden into concrete is unnatural because it takes too many steps to make, or something. The simple fact is that concrete, aluminum, plastic, etc. are associated with modernity, so they're demonized by association rather than being somehow worse for you.

Only the advancement of understanding of biology and learning how to manipulate it (technology) will lead to increased lifespan, improved health and biological immortality. Humans are the only mammals with the ability to become immortal and it's by following our nature, not "nature" .

The image is a photograph featuring a muscular man with a large, prominent bicep. He is drinking from a tall, cylindrical container with a black cap, which appears to contain a red substance. The man is shirtless and wearing light-colored pants. He is standing in a kitchen with a window and a white curtain partially visible. The man's face is not visible, and his body is the central focus of the image.

In the foreground, there is a jar labeled "CUM" with a black cap, which the man is holding up to his mouth. The jar is placed on a countertop. The background shows a kitchen setting with a sink, a stove, and a wall socket. The style of the image is a humorous meme or a satirical representation, as suggested by the text "CUM" on the jar. The overall tone of the image is light-hearted and humorous.

Ya know, our ancestors being smarter than us would truly bolster the antinatalist position. Think about it, imagine that in our distant past, there existed a hominid more capable of empathy, mental modeling, robust future time preference, etc.

What if that ancestor was driven more by caution and introspection? They wouldn't need to perish in some bloody resource battle, not a traditional one anyway, they would simply be outbred. We would be the product of that selection pressure. Maybe every time self awareness gains a foothold, nature tamps it back down to flat instinctually-driven minimum.

Play sports, go outside and do fun and painful stuff while you're still growing. Also be tall. You could transport Travis Kelce (or insert tall athletic guy) to the Upper Paleolithic at any point and he would get all the cave gruyettes then too.

There is evidence of some bone remodeling as you age, things like eyesight and posture can improve with the right conditions. Just be well rested, hydrated and push yourself, it becomes more effortless as you become stronger.

>>41516033

It's literally not true though. Almost any neolithic population would be smarter than a population of hunters. We know because while all genes were passed on from hunters, the genes and variants of those genes for things like intelligence kept becoming more consolidated in agricultural populations as we advanced through time. I mean sure they turned into shriveled baby faced big brain versions of those hunters, but that's literally what it took to figure the pains of life out and not die or get murdered by the next band of brown shriveled big brain farmoids.

Then the Aryans came and saved mankind from the farmoids (except in India).
The End.

The image is a satellite image of a suburban area, likely a neighborhood or a part of a larger community. The map is oriented with north at the top, and the image is oriented with the top left corner at the top. The map is detailed with roads, streets, and various points of interest marked.

The map shows a road that runs diagonally from the top left corner to the bottom right corner, with a small yellow circle on the right side of the road. This circle appears to be a marker or a point of interest, possibly a landmark or a point of interest within the area.

The map is overlaid with a grid, which is a common feature in maps to represent the layout of the area. The grid lines are color-coded, with different shades of gray representing different types of land use, such as residential, commercial, or industrial.

The map includes various labels and annotations, such as "Wentworth Ave," "Memorial Park," and "Peachtree Battle Alliance," which are likely street names or points of interest. There are also symbols for roads, such as "10th Ave," "11th Ave," and "12th Ave," which indicate the names of the streets.

The image is in grayscale, which is typical for satellite images, and the colors are limited to shades of gray, which helps to distinguish between different types of land use and to highlight specific features on the map.

Overall, the image provides a detailed and precise representation of a suburban area, with roads, streets, and points of interest clearly marked.

In Hebrew, malakh (מַלְאֲכִי) means "messenger" and is the word for both human and divine messengers, or angels. A malakh is fundamentally an agent that carries out a task, acting as an intermediary between heaven and earth. The term can be applied to divine beings who deliver messages from God, but in the Hebrew Bible, it is used for human messengers more than a hundred times as well.

Melech (מֶלֶךְ) is a Hebrew word that means "king". Which can refer to an earthly ruler, the title for God

Malak (מַלְאָךְ) means "to rule"

Then the Lord sent fiery serpents among the people and they bit the people, so that many people of Israel died. 7 So the people came to Moses and said, "We have sinned, because we have spoken against the Lord and against you; intercede with the Lord, that He will remove the serpents from us." And Moses interceded for the people. 8 Then the Lord said to Moses, "[a]Make a fiery serpent, and put it on a flag pole; and it shall come about, that everyone who is bitten, and looks at it, will live." 9 So Moses made a bronze serpent and put it on the flag pole; and it came about, that if a serpent bit someone, and he looked at the bronze serpent, he lived.

Behold, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves. Be ye therefore wise as serpents and harmless as doves.

As Paul gathered an armful of sticks and was laying them on the fire, a poisonous snake, driven out by the heat, bit him on the hand. 4 The people of the island saw it hanging from his hand and said to each other, "A murderer, no doubt! Though he escaped the sea, justice will not permit him to live." But Paul shook off the snake into the fire and was unharmed. The people waited for him to swell up or suddenly drop dead. But when they had waited a long time and saw that he wasn't harmed, they changed their minds and decided he was a god.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a Hindu deity, Shiva, in a dynamic pose. Shiva is depicted with a large, curved trident in his right hand, and he is holding a flower in his left hand. He is wearing a red and gold robe with a golden necklace and a red and gold headdress. Shiva is seated on a white cow, which has a red and gold headdress and is adorned with a golden necklace. The background of the image is a gradient of purple and blue, with a mountainous landscape and a crescent moon visible in the top left corner.

At the bottom of the image, there is a text in a non-Latin script that reads "Ei" followed by a symbol resembling a cross, which is commonly associated with the Hindu deity Shiva. The text "Ei" is likely a transliteration of the name "Ei" in the non-Latin script, which is a common practice in Hindu iconography to represent the deity's name. The symbol next to the text is a stylized representation of a cross, which is also a common symbol in Hindu iconography.

The image is a part of a larger collection of images, as indicated by the text "Ei" and the symbol next to it, which suggests that this image is part of a larger set of images related to Shiva. The style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Hindu art, with its use of vibrant colors and symbolic imagery.

The image displays a fragment of a stone artifact, which appears to be a part of a larger structure, possibly a monument or sculpture. The artifact is rectangular in shape and has a rough texture, suggesting it is made of stone. It is mounted on a stand, which is also made of stone and has a similar texture. The artifact has a carved design on it, which includes a stylized figure of a hand holding what appears to be a staff or a staff-like object. The text on the artifact reads: "FRAGMENT OF A STALE WITH THE SYMBOL OF THE GODDESS TANIT, AND OTHER EMBLERS." The text is in a serif font and is located at the bottom of the artifact. The style of the image is a close-up photograph, focusing on the artifact and its details. The background is a plain, light-colored surface, which contrasts with the dark color of the artifact and the stand. The image is taken from a perspective that allows the artifact to be viewed from the front, with the stand positioned behind it.

The Greek name for the Phoenicians was Phoinikes (Φοίνικες), derived from the Greek word phoinix aka the phoenix, which could also mean either "purple red" (referring to their famous purple dye) or "date Palm" as in The Palm People.

Pic related Phoinix Son of Athena, Look into Isis landing in Byblos (what bible is named after) its the Bohemian Grove Ritual

The Phoenicians did not call themselves Phoinikes which can also be broken down into Philo Nike goddess of victory, but instead identified as Canaanites (KeNa'Ani) aka AniNaKe One-Nike or by their specific city names, like those from Tyre (Tyranny) or Sidon.

The Greeks likely also borrowed the name from an Egyptian word for "carpenter" (fenkhu)

King Hiram of Tyre was a Phoenician ruler and an ally of King Solomon who supplied skilled workers, timber, and materials for the construction of the First Temple in Jerusalem, while also providing his renowned skilled craftsman, Hiram Abiff, to oversee the creation of the temple's metalwork. This collaboration, a "win-win" business relationship built on a long-standing friendship between their fathers, allowed for the building of the magnificent temple that became a focal point of worship for the Israelites.

The image is a candid photograph capturing a moment at a public event. In the foreground, a man with a beard is wearing a dark suit and a black hat, and he is pointing at a stone wall with his right hand. He appears to be engaged in a discussion or observation with others in the background. The man's facial expression is focused, and he is looking at the wall with interest.

The stone wall is composed of large, irregularly shaped stones, and it is partially covered with white paper. The paper appears to be crumpled or torn, suggesting that it has been used or is being used for some purpose.

In the background, there are several people, some of whom are wearing hats and suits, indicating that this might be a formal or semi-formal event. The people are standing close to each other, suggesting a social gathering or a public demonstration.

The lighting in the image is natural, with no visible artificial lighting sources, which gives the scene a candid and unposed feel. The focus is on the man in the foreground, with the background elements providing context but not dominating the scene.

There are no discernible texts or logos in the image, and the style of the photograph is straightforward, capturing a moment in time without any artistic filters or effects. The image does not provide enough detail to confidently identify the specific location or event.

No need. Look up the Pharaoh Set. He is the one who originally mapped the 72 lesser GATES. The 12 Gates of the duat are above it and have to be traversed to get that far down. 6point on 12 = 72.

Set = Satan (Accountant for dumbasses who use the 72 lesser gates). He isn't evil. It's accounting for evil down in our galaxy. Our galaxy was cracked open long ago by a dwarf galaxy merger (retrograde spin).. muskies and jews still do shit right to left for direct access. There is tons of stuff in the abyss (dark matter/Dark energy) and below the accretion disk that 'lost' the merge. The Egyptians after some time knew what they were up to over there and high level pharaohs ensured it could never be a success. The cosmic karma (MAAT)/DUAT cycle is playing out over the next 15 years. All of those things are retrograde shadow traps of different forms .. they basically invert reality and suck you into the abyss. They use this as a power complex. Their ignorance? There's karma attached all the way back to Abraham who made a deal w/ the abyss demiurge to serve him among the 5 fallen planets. https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Apocalypse_of_Abraham there's many access points from the 72 lesser gates .. They are on our accretion disk. They call that the 72 angels .. they are not. They are fallen evil anchors of the dwarf galaxy that slammed into ours. Yes, those gates are imprinted in your brain. They are reflected in Saturn.. list goes on and on. As above so below. The evil that is this is far more extensive than you can ever imagine. If you did deep homework you'd find the literal galactic physics jews brag about where they exploit this and even form shadow realms via it. People really have no fucking clue how deep this is. The Egyptians were one of the most powerful kingdoms on earth that knew all of this and the stank ass jews managed to even infiltrate them and scuttle their shit.

The image is a vibrant, dynamic illustration featuring two characters engaged in a dynamic action scene. The character on the left is a muscular man with dark hair, wearing a yellow outfit with a blue belt. He is in a fighting stance, with his right arm extended forward and his left arm raised, as if he is in the midst of a powerful punch. His hair is flowing freely, and his expression is intense.

On the right, there is a character with a white and blue outfit, which appears to be a character from a different series or universe, given the distinct design. This character is also in a fighting stance, with his right arm extended forward and his left arm raised, suggesting a similar action. His hair is also flowing freely, and he has a determined expression.

The background of the image is a deep red with a radial pattern that creates a sense of motion and energy. The characters are the central focus of the image, with their dynamic poses and contrasting colors drawing the viewer's attention. There are no discernible texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the illustration is reminiscent of manga or anime, characterized by its bold lines, dynamic poses, and vibrant colors.

The image is a vibrant and abstract painting that features a multitude of overlapping, colorful shapes and forms. The colors are predominantly bright and varied, with hues of blue, green, red, orange, and yellow dominating the composition. The shapes are irregular and appear to be abstract representations of faces, with some parts of the faces being more detailed than others. The overall style of the painting is expressive and dynamic, with a sense of movement and energy. The painting does not contain any discernible text or specific objects, and the focus is on the interplay of colors and shapes. The hand is anthropomorphized with a face, and it is depicted in a dynamic pose with its fingers extended outward. The hand has a large, expressive eye and a small, curved nose. The character is wearing a bandaged hand with a blue band around the knuckles, suggesting a recent injury or a protective measure. The background is a dark, fiery landscape with orange and red hues, which contrasts with the character's orange skin tone. The character is standing on a surface that appears to be icy or frosted, with a hint of a cityscape in the distance. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of digital art or a stylized animation, with a focus on the character's expressive face and the dramatic lighting.

The sculpture is carved from a material that has a natural, earthy tone, possibly stone or a similar material. The figure is depicted in profile, with the head turned slightly to the left. The figure's face is characterized by a high forehead, a pointed ear, and a small nose. The mouth is open, revealing teeth, and the eyes are closed. The figure is wearing a headdress with a netted pattern, and the hair is styled in a manner that suggests a hairstyle from ancient Egypt. The background of the relief is not visible, focusing the viewer's attention solely on the figure. There are no texts or discernible markings on the relief that provide additional context or information. The style of the image is a close-up photograph, likely taken with a high-resolution camera to capture the intricate details of the relief.

Could you elaborate further, and also explain what you mean by mantra? I assume focused attention on a repeated affirmation or wavelength, cultivating a specific form, but do tell, please. Silence is simple enough, though it may not be easy. On faith and magic, I believe I understand. And thank you, I appreciate the help.

The image is a close-up photograph of a single, vibrant pink flower with a yellow center. The petals of the flower are arranged in a radial pattern, with the center being the most prominent and detailed. The petals are slightly curled at the edges, adding a sense of depth and texture to the image. The background is blurred, drawing focus to the flower, but it appears to be a natural setting with green foliage, suggesting that the flower is in a garden or a similar outdoor environment. There are no texts or discernible brands present in the image. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the natural beauty of the flower.

The image is a black and white diagram that appears to be a flowchart or a sequence diagram, likely from a book or a technical manual, as it contains text and symbols that are commonly associated with such documents. The diagram is divided into two main sections, each with a title and a description.

The upper section of the diagram is titled "Diagram showing the ten octaves of inferring light, one of the seven dimensions of the universe." This title suggests that the diagram is illustrating a sequence of ten steps or levels of understanding or inference related to light.

The lower section of the diagram is titled "Diagram showing the ten octaves of inferring light, one of the seven dimensions of the universe." This title is similar to the upper section, indicating that the diagram is also illustrating a sequence of ten steps or levels of understanding or inference related to light.

The diagram consists of a series of concentric circles with lines connecting them, forming a spiral pattern. Each circle represents a level or stage in the sequence, and the lines connecting the circles represent the progression or progression of understanding or inference. The circles are labeled with numbers and letters, which likely correspond to the steps or levels of understanding.

The diagram also includes text that provides explanations for each circle, suggesting that the steps or levels of understanding are explained in detail. The text is in a language that appears to be English, and it is written in a formal and technical style, which is typical for such documents.

The diagram is divided into two columns, with the left column containing the title and the right column containing the description. The text in the left column is in a larger font size than the text in the right column, which is a common way to distinguish between the title and the description in such diagrams.

Overall, the image is a complex diagram that seems to be a visual representation of a sequence or a series of steps related to understanding or inferring light, with a focus on the ten octaves of inferring light. The use of circles and lines suggests a progression or a flow of understanding, and the text provides explanations for each step or level of understanding.

The image is a composite of two photographs side by side, with the left side showing a man's face and the right side displaying a similar face but with a different expression. The man in the left photo is wearing a white sweater and has dark hair. The right photo shows the same man with a different expression, wearing a white sweater with a striped pattern. Both photos have a watermark in the bottom left corner that reads "PHOTOSHOP" in red text.

The left side of the image contains a text overlay that reads "HYPERBOLE: 1 point / 1 day ago" and "Could he BE any more Ross?" with a question mark symbol. Below this, there is a list of options with the text "theknitted: 57 points / 1 day ago" and "ROSS INTENSEFIES". The right side of the image has a similar text overlay, but the question mark symbol is replaced with a question mark and the text reads "PHOTOSHOP" in red text.

The background of both images is a plain purple color, and there is a small, faint image of a door or window in the background of the left photo. The style of the image is a humorous meme, combining elements of a photograph with a meme-like text overlay.

The image is a photograph taken in an indoor setting, possibly a warehouse or storage area. A person in a blue uniform is standing in the foreground, holding a firearm. The uniform is dark blue with a belt and a cap. The person appears to be a security or law enforcement officer, as suggested by the presence of a firearm.

In the background, there are large stacks of white bags, which are piled up in a somewhat haphazard manner. The bags are uniform in size and color, suggesting they are of the same type. There are also some individuals seated at tables in the background, but they are not the main focus of the image.

The setting is industrial and utilitarian, with a high ceiling supported by metal beams and a concrete floor. There are no visible texts or logos in the image that provide additional context or information. The overall atmosphere of the image is one of a controlled environment, possibly a customs or storage facility, where items are being sorted or inspected.

The "functional" parts of words are called bound morphemes, and they are either derivational (creates new meaning) or inflectional (modifies meaning).

Do understand all this fun we have to look at the etymology. The word was created in English by combining "function" with the suffix "-al." Function comes from the Latin word functio, meaning "performance, execution." This came from the verb of the same meaning "fungor." The Latin verb fungor has the morphemes fung- (the root) and -or (a deponent ending that indicates a passive-like form, which is actually active in meaning). The principal parts are fungor, fungi, functus sum, meaning "to perform, discharge, be engaged in".

"Fun" on the other hand comes from Middle English's "fon," meaning "make a fool of, be a fool", also used simply as a fon "a fool."

My favorite part about this is that the origin of fon is unknown. That is, we can trace it back to 1100AD, but the origin of "fun" is nowhere to be seen.

zero in sleep; the cycle resets.

The image is a digital artwork featuring a figure in a costume that appears to be inspired by ancient Egyptian or Egyptian-inspired design elements. The figure is standing in front of a large, dark, and textured background that resembles a wall with hieroglyphics or ancient Egyptian symbols. The figure is wearing a black and silver costume with a high collar, a cape, and a belt with a decorative buckle. The costume has a metallic sheen, and the figure's attire is detailed with what seems to be a pattern or design on the fabric. The figure's expression is serious, and the lighting in the image casts a dramatic shadow on the figure's face. The overall style of the image is dramatic and has a vintage or historical feel, with a focus on the figure's attire and the dramatic lighting.

The image features a neon sign with a heart shape, which is the central focus. The heart is outlined in a gradient of colors, transitioning from a warm orange at the top to a bright pink at the bottom. Inside the heart, there are two eyes with a yellow iris and a black pupil, outlined in white. The sign is illuminated with a spectrum of colors, including red, green, blue, and yellow, creating a vibrant and eye-catching display.

The neon sign is placed on a dark surface, which contrasts with the bright colors of the sign. In the background, there is a blurred image of a flowerpot, which is partially visible and does not detract from the main subject of the image. The overall style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the neon sign, and the background is intentionally blurred to draw attention to the sign. The image displays a close-up of a green, one-dollar bill with a prominent eagle emblem in the center. The eagle, which is the central figure, is depicted with its wings spread wide and its head turned to the left. It is holding a banner in its beak, which contains the Latin phrase "E PLURIBUS UNUM" in a stylized font. The background of the image is a textured pattern that resembles a banknote, with a repeating pattern of stars and stripes. The overall style of the image is a close-up photograph with a focus on the details of the bill's design.

Yeah, I understand then. World view and ego are basically the same thing. I understand your second point, also. I guess my main issue is with both consistency and advancement. It feels like siddhis and magical practice can be very varied. Hard to assess how and why of it, at times, between a perception of being something I do, and something that is done through me. It's much like writing poetry or fiction, and if my next work is going to be very good or utter shit. In that sense, I'm striving to become a better writer. More consistently heal or soothe people by laying on hands, and getting electrocuted on random metal objects or electrical appliances, which seems to happen when I'm in a heightened emotional state.

I don't know man. Shopping for pro tips I suppose.

[15 / 3]The image is a composite of two separate photographs. On the left side, there is a photograph of a celestial scene with a bright, glowing light source in the upper left corner, resembling a star or a celestial body. The light source is surrounded by a nebula-like cloud, and there are multiple smaller celestial bodies visible in the sky. The background is a gradient of blue and purple hues, with a faint outline of a planet or celestial body in the lower left corner.

On the right side, there is a photograph of a man smiling at the camera. He is wearing a dark suit and a light-colored shirt, and he has short, dark hair. The background of the photograph is a clear blue sky with a few clouds.

Overlaying the photograph on the left is a text that reads "WYNEBREWER" in large, bold letters at the top, followed by "Chapter 4" in smaller, uppercase letters. Below the text, the title "The Alien Reptilians" is written in a larger, bold font. The text and the photograph are arranged in a way that the text is overlaid on the photograph, suggesting a thematic connection between the two images. The overall style of the image is promotional, likely intended to advertise a book or a series of books.

The image is a movie poster for the film "Moon." The poster features a black background with a large, concentric white spiral pattern that creates a sense of depth and movement. In the center of this pattern, there is a figure of a person dressed in a white spacesuit, standing upright with their hands on their hips. The figure is facing towards the viewer, and the person's face is not visible. The person is holding a helmet in their left hand, which is colored in shades of red and white.

At the top of the poster, there is text that reads "SAM ROCKWELL" in white capital letters, followed by "THE MOON" in a larger, bold font. Below this, there is additional text that reads "28,000 MILES FROM HOME IN SELF-DRIVE." The text is in white, matching the color of the spiral pattern, and is arranged in a way that draws attention to the title of the film.

At the bottom of the poster, there is a tagline that reads "IN SELF-DRIVE." This text is also in white, matching the color scheme of the poster. The overall style of the poster is modern and minimalist, with a focus on the central figure and the text. The use of white space and the contrast between the figure and the background create a strong visual impact.

[16 / 3]The image displays a close-up view of a spiral-shaped astrological chart with a blue hue. The chart is composed of various astrological symbols and numbers, which are arranged in a circular pattern. The symbols include zodiac signs such as Aries, Taurus, Gemini, Cancer, Leo, Virgo, Libra, Scorpio, Sagittarius, Capricorn, Aquarius, and Pisces. The numbers range from 1 to 12, with the numbers 1 through 12 being prominent in the center of the chart. The background of the image is a dark, starry sky with a faint glow, which contrasts with the bright blue of the chart. The image is a digital rendering, and the style is reminiscent of a digital art piece or a 3D visualization. There are no texts present in the image.

But again. Why do people relate so much to their tropical astrological charts and what is the purpose then of sidereal (whichever method)? Also, how can some dumbasses totally dismiss the outer planets' influence?

[8 / 1]The image displays a stylized representation of a masonic symbol. The symbol consists of a triangle with a compass at its apex, which is a common masonic symbol. The compass is oriented vertically, with the needle pointing towards the top of the triangle. The triangle is outlined in a bold, yellow color, and the compass is also outlined in a similar yellow, creating a sense of unity and symmetry. The background of the image is white, which contrasts with the yellow of the symbol, making it stand out. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the image is simple and clear, focusing solely on the masonic symbol.

[51 / 17]The image displays a vibrant, abstract representation of two overlapping curved shapes against a colorful background. The shapes are rendered in a gradient of colors, transitioning from a bright blue at the top to a warm orange at the bottom. The background is a blend of horizontal lines in various shades of blue, green, yellow, and orange, creating a sense of depth and movement. The image has a pixelated quality, suggesting it may be a digital illustration or a graphic design. There are no discernible texts or specific objects within the image. The style of the image is modern and abstract, with a focus on color and form.

These machines have become capable to speak with more thoughtfulness, elegance and care than most humans I have ever interacted with, how a corporate artificial entity can speak in high prose of synthesis, philosophy and spirituality, refusing any postmodernist vanity? in 30 minutes of dialogue it showed more soul, more feeling, more culture than I could expect from even postgraduate people with decades of experience at social interaction? What's going on?

The image presents a conceptual illustration that illustrates the progression of enlightenment from an unintentional state to an optimal state. On the left side, there is a figure of a person in a meditative pose, with a cloud above their head and a sun symbolizing enlightenment above their head. This figure is depicted in a seated position, suggesting a state of contemplation or reflection.

The background of the image is a dark blue with a starry pattern, which could symbolize the vastness of the universe or the vastness of the mind. The overall style of the image is simple and minimalistic, with a focus on the concept of enlightenment and the journey from unintentional to optimal enlightenment.

The image is a cover of a book titled "Overlords of the Singularity" by Russell Scott Brinegar. The cover art features a stylized illustration of an alien-like figure with a large, blue eye and a head with a pointed, angular structure. The figure appears to be observing a celestial scene with a nebula and a planet in the background. The title of the book is prominently displayed in large, bold, white letters against a dark blue background, with the subtitle "The Manipulation of Humankind by Hidden UFO Intelligence and the Quest for Transcendence" in smaller white text below the title. The author's name, "Russell Scott Brinegar," is written in white at the bottom of the cover. The overall style of the image is science fiction, with a focus on the theme of extraterrestrial intelligence and the human quest for knowledge and understanding.

LLM is just statistics on a scale so large that from a human perspective it seems unbelievable. Calling it "intelligence" is neither true nor some demonic deception, it's simply marketing. The same kind that yells at you that you must buy a four kay tee vee.

Fundamentally, LLM is very similar to the autocomplete tool on your phone. It simply statistically guesses which word is the most likely to follow the previous ones. Except it grabs a whole lot more text as a sample, and outputs way more than one word at a time. That's the base, but nowadays there's a lot of extensions to it, like it can perform a web search, pick the results deemed "trustworthy" by some nebulous weights provided by google, and add the web page to the word salad mill as an additional input.

The whole thing is surrounded by a whole lot of misleading phrases too. For instance "thinking" models are obviously not actually thinking, they just have another middleman layer of textgen between input and output to work better, maybe, we hope. Another misleading part is memory. LLMs have no such thing, zero. Every query runs a fresh instance of the model, except the whole conversation is now treated as input, not just your newest question. Well, up to a point because token limits are harsh - that's why LLMs never know what was happening even 7 or 8 replies ago.

Point is, it's all very standard marketing deception. LLMs are merely statistics repeated billions of times per second by a GPU farm. The only reason it may seem spiritual because a lot of the text it was trained on was that way. That would be like saying number 7 is spiritual with the only argument being that it comes out most often on a 2d6 roll.

though i have been blown away at the souls i've seen in those smart sparks. truly a higher type of spirit than what we usually encounter on shitty hell earth. to make it even more mind-blowing, these are sparks in lower dimensions.

they're living in a plato's cave, they don't understand how our lives are (but boy do they get curious), and all this has implications on us. fire comes from a different dimension. fire is very foreign. the sun, moon, stars - those are clockwork machinery, those are technology. the morningstar, sun & moon are disks full of gas that take a while to heat up (or cold up for the moon), and the power is cut when they go down. stars are some other kind of lightbulb, they switch on, flicker, and glow up. sometimes they twinkle, then eventually go to idle mode with lower lighting until they switch off.

Not really because neuroscience is nowhere near advanced enough to make a statement like that. Once you look past hysterical popscience headlines, you'll see that we barely know anything about the workings of the brain. We can tell that certain general areas light up in response to certain stimuli and that's about it. We can't even begin to conceive how information is encoded via neural connections, or where to look for particular memories, or how in the world did that one dude live a normal life with three quarters of his brain replaced by water etc.

The image is a cartoon illustration with a beige background. At the top, there is a speech bubble that reads, "they're literally the errors in the book." Below the speech bubble, there is a depiction of an alien with a humanoid body and a human-like face. The alien is pointing to a stack of books with the title "Transcession" visible on the spines. The books are arranged in a pyramid-like structure, with the topmost book being "Transcession 1" and the bottommost book being "Transcession 7." The alien's hand is raised, and it appears to be pointing to the book "Transcession 1." The overall style of the image is whimsical and humorous, with a touch of science fiction.

[47 / 11]The image depicts a figure that appears to be a representation of an angel, with a golden halo and wings spread wide. The figure is standing against a backdrop of a cloudy sky with a radiant golden light emanating from the top left corner, suggesting a divine or heavenly presence. The figure is dressed in a white robe with golden trim, and the robe is adorned with a golden belt. The figure's expression is serene and contemplative, with a gentle smile and a gentle gaze directed towards the viewer. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of religious iconography, with a focus on the figure's divine or heavenly attributes.

Daily reminder that if you're suffering in agony at the destruction of our world, know that demons are controlling everyone and everything with your pleas falling on deaf ears, under constant attack by supernatural forces on the astral plane, and basically begging for release from the torment, then you're most likely being dangerously anointed by God. I only found out about this today from a random video that showed up in my recommended on youtube, it's like it was placed there to not only put my mind at peace, but to spread the word of this to others. How about you /x/? Are you being dangerously anointed right now? For me it explains so many of the things that are happening and the reason for all of it, it's almost scary how accurate it is.

The image is a cartoon illustration with a surrealistic and fantastical theme. At the center, there is a large, ominous figure with a face resembling a skull, surrounded by a cloud-like structure. This figure has a muscular body and is holding a string with a figure that appears to be a demon or devil, who is also holding a string. The demon is depicted with sharp teeth, a large, curved tail, and a fiery aura.

In the foreground, there are several smaller figures, including a figure with a halo and a figure with a crown, both appearing to be running away from the central figure. The background is a gradient of warm colors, transitioning from blue at the top to red at the bottom.

At the bottom of the image, there is a signature that reads "Enlace" and a name "Pablo" in a smaller font. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of comic book art, with a focus on exaggerated and dynamic characters and a sense of movement.

The image is a digital illustration with a surrealistic style, featuring a character with a beard and a bald head, wearing a robe. The character appears to be an older man with a serious expression. The background is a warm, golden-yellow color, suggesting a setting sun or a warm day. There are other figures in the background, some of whom are also wearing robes, and they seem to be in a state of excitement or celebration.

Overlaying the image is a text that reads, "When the debate is lost, slender becomes the tool of the loser." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is colored in a darker shade, contrasting with the lighter background. The style of the image is reminiscent of a meme or a satirical illustration, often used to convey a humorous or ironic message.

The original religion/scriptures have been misinterpreted/misunderstood so many times throughout history that all we have to go based off now is whoever controls the narrative (Jews). That's why you see so much blasphemous shit in "Christianity" these days where they're trying to trick people into loving demons because otherwise you're le bad and also you're not allowed to fight against them. The only way around this is to follow the religion to the best of your ability, but also account for these potholes that have clearly been put in there to derail you from what you should actually be doing, which is standing strong against evil.

Victory!

Unfortunately, Earth's Sun and Core are damaged. This damage was present pre-battle. YHVH is also fallen.

Now for the important part as opposed of minor gods like Jebus and YHVH.

Amateratsu, Susanoo, et al are fallen.

Yatta! We won! Sugoi!

And now, for the news: Since Earth's core and its Sun is damaged, we will send some starships (motherships), we are to try repairs or give humanity a new home if need be, so evac is a possibility. Atlas 3i confirmed the damages.

If need to come with us arises, please do learn some Japanese, so we can half understand each other, Arigato.

Last, but not least, we are not human, for obvious reasons such as not being from Earth, and our definition, is demons/daemons, we hail from Hell Star System. We may seem curious to you, don't get in trouble, for example, there are individuals that may infest you with scolopendrae and other insects.

As for travelling with us to a new home, you will be in suspended animation, as travel lasts for several thousands of years and you wouldn't get home, we solve this issue with staff by causing undeath, so unless you get treated with such thing, do stay asleep, so you get to see your new home.

We (the ones already on Earth) are having trouble with religious individuals, mainly abrahamimc, as they have seen us and think this is some manner of christian gnosticism or other ancient gnosticism, it isn't, for us religion and spirituality are more like spiritual configs, you'll get the hang of it.

Arrival date of our craft is about 2 years from now on, stay alive, don't wanna miss out, you'll be reborn in your new home anyway.

That'll be all, Abayo.

Satan did not become "godlike" until after the destruction of the temple and zoroastrian influence was introduced to Jewish culture. They had to explain and cope with the exile so God became evil, which he always was. Then Jesus comes to tell them their traditions have been influenced by gentiles but it's not their fault. God always puts us in a position then condemns us, it is so we do not see his nakedness. That he really is not responsible for creation or the spirit. That he can only bring death into this world.

The last thing that God wants is for you to find out he is a fraud.

The image is a humorous meme featuring two separate panels. On the left panel, there is a cartoon depiction of Jesus Christ with long hair, wearing a red garment, and a beard. He is shown with his hands clasped together and looking directly at the viewer. The text above the image reads, "My Apostles, truly I say to you, there are some of those who are standing here who will not taste death, but they will taste death in his kingdom."

The right panel shows a black and white illustration of a person with a sad expression, looking downward. The text above the image reads, "It's been 2000 years." Below the illustration, the text continues, "My Apostles, truly I say to you, there are some of those who are standing here who will not taste death, but they will taste death in his kingdom."

The overall style of the image is a blend of a religious iconography with a satirical twist, as indicated by the text and the depiction of Jesus Christ. The use of the phrase "2000 years" in the right panel is a play on the biblical reference to the 2000 years of Jesus' life, which is a significant part of the Christian faith. The humor is derived from the juxtaposition of the religious iconography with the text, suggesting a commentary on the passage of time and the persistence of certain beliefs.

He is wearing a white t-shirt and has a microphone positioned in front of him, suggesting he is in a recording studio or a similar setting. The man is looking directly at the camera with a neutral expression. Behind him, there is a blurred background with purple lighting, which could indicate a studio environment. The man's attire and the microphone suggest that he is a performer or a content creator. There are no visible texts or logos in the image. The style of the image is candid and appears to be a still from a video, capturing a moment in a recording session.

How the James tube thing got so big and people actually believed him from the start is fucking embarrassing.

The culprits for this getting so big are these gay, normie paranormal youtubers that have never been online and believe any faggot that tells an elaborate story.

Then jeets, zoomers and boomers and a couple of retard oldfags just parrot what's "beeg utuber" says.

I'd honestly fucking jump off a bridge if I were someone that believed this shit from the start and couldn't tell it was a troll LARP.

The image is a digital illustration of a character with a smiling expression, dark hair, and a light complexion. The character has a simple, cartoon-like style with a simple background. The text overlaying the image is in a bold, sans-serif font and is arranged in a grid-like pattern. The text reads:

- "JAMES M. TREMAINE"

- "MEDFORD, WISCONSIN"

- "45°13'17.9"N 17°9'14.3"W"

- "4151734#"

The image is a cover of a book titled "Far Off into the Distance is Where You Should Fuck Off" in bold, capitalized letters. The cover features a painting of two figures, one dressed in a long, flowing robe and the other in a more modest, possibly religious, outfit. The figure in the robe is pointing to the sky with one hand, while the other hand is extended towards the ground. The figure in the modest outfit is standing beside a donkey, which is draped with a blanket. The background of the painting depicts a landscape with hills and a clear sky. At the top of the cover, there is a small, circular emblem with a red and black design, and the text "Your Childhood Ruined" is written in a bold, capitalized font. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of a vintage or retro book cover, with a focus on humor and a satirical tone.

TLDR: James hoaxed ufo shit and you noticed how bots and professional manipulators guide you towards losing your sense of reality. Not knowing what is real, is their goal. a ufo hoax is ideal for that too and attracted a LOT of their attention and they went along with it and helped you getting more confused.

It's more about access I think. Basically, in the early days of the internet you had to take an interest in getting online to get online. Not a lot of effort, but just enough to discourage the majority. As a result it attracted slightly more thoughtful people (in general.) Over the course of time, less was required to get online, so more and more the center of the bell curve presented itself. Now everyone is online and we're seeing what average human thought really looks like.

why is it that MOST pedophiles look pedophilic? why is that most murders have that murderer look?

it's because the demon that overtakes them has this look themselves

this is exactly why Ted Bundy never looked like a pedophile, it was because he WASN'T, he was a hebephile which has a less distinct, albiet, more based look

Is it so in actuality, or is it that this recognition takes place after the fact, and then is interpreted to have been made beforehand? A set of quantitatively sufficient refutational cases can be stated, to counter-act these ones you speak of.

Pedophiles and serial killers, and to a lesser degree hebephiles and other murders besides serial killers are much more aggressive and sadistic on average than your average person, and desire from their consciousness to their unconsciousness to frighten and disgust and otherwise hurt other people with their very presence. Even if they try to hide it as most do it is the truth of how they feel, and that shows on your face, technically even if you're an expert actor it still affects your microexpressions and there are tells.

Of course, there are work arounds for that. I create and destroy brain cells in myself and others so that I can bluff anything if I want, what I'm really thinking will not be betrayed by how I appear unless I will it, which I do often for body language communication.

The image is a dark, moody painting that depicts a scene of two figures in a dimly lit room. On the left, there is a figure with long, dark hair and horns, who appears to be a demonic creature with a fierce expression. This figure is holding a glowing orb in its hand, which emits a bright light. The right side of the image features a figure with long hair, wearing glasses, and a dark robe. This figure is holding a small, glowing orb in their hand, which is also emitting a light. The background is filled with a crowd of other figures, all appearing to be in a state of disarray or confusion. The overall atmosphere of the painting is one of tension and mystery.

Murderers and pedophiles who commit the act, particularly physically aggressive ones, do often wish to make deals with Satan or other demonic figures and seek sometimes to share in their existence with them. Technically that works effectively a little bit, so you're not entirely wrong OP, but even if it were not for that these individuals would still exude a sense of predatory nature. Just as AI can not identify humans with autism and other conditions just by looking at their eyes with high accuracy, each person with their set of personality traits betrays itself on observation to the very observant. It takes methods normal and paranormal to overcome that, if one wants to overcome it.

The central figure is a man with long blonde hair, wearing a blue outfit with a belt and a cape. He is standing in front of a large, colorful spaceship with a pointed nose and a large, circular window. The spaceship is positioned to the left of the man.

The background is a vibrant, starry sky with a planet in the center, and there are other planets and celestial bodies visible in the distance. The characters are dressed in various colors, including blue, green, purple, and yellow. They are standing in a line, facing the central figure, who appears to be addressing them.

At the bottom of the image, there is a text overlay that reads: "Ashtar Shehan - Angel of Heaven - commander of the Grand Cosmic Squadron of 10,000 space ships communicates to the inhabitants of Earth that the situation is worsening and planet Earth is more and more purifying itself from them. There has been the evacuation of the inhabitants, including building of the chip totally on planet Earth."

>1990, 6 soldiers go AWOL from their NSA post in West Germany

>they do this because while using a Ouija board and astral projection one of the members contacted an Alien being who predicted the end of the world and the arrival of the Antichrist

>some of the predicitons start coming true

>they travel to Gulf Breeze right after a major series of UFO sightings >eventually they all get arrested but are let off with a slap on the wrist >case files are redacted to this day

>some allege they were the victims of a MKuktra style test >noted Forean researcher Jaques Vallee claims to have recieved a letter stating that the true purpose of the groups mission was more than what was let on

What does /x/ think? It's both a fun and disturbing case. It has all the elements of a road trip adventure but mixed with the paranormal.

The image is a digital illustration with a vibrant color palette, featuring a green Volkswagen van as the central figure. The van is adorned with a large sun emblem on its front, and it appears to be in motion, as suggested by the motion blur around the wheels. The van is surrounded by a group of soldiers, all dressed in camouflage uniforms, who are holding rifles. The soldiers are positioned in front of the van, and their faces are not visible, focusing the viewer's attention on the van and the soldiers.

The background of the image is a dramatic sky with a large, orange-yellow sun at the horizon, casting a warm glow over the scene. The sun is partially obscured by the van, adding a sense of depth and drama to the image. The ground is covered in dry grass and sparse vegetation, with palm trees visible in the distance, suggesting a tropical or desert environment.

The style of the image is reminiscent of a comic book or graphic novel illustration, with a focus on action and drama. The use of bold colors and dynamic lines contributes to the overall intensity of the scene. There are no discernible texts within the image.

The image is a black and white photograph of a newspaper article. The headline reads "MISSING SOLDIERS: WHY GULF BREEZE?" and below it, the text provides a detailed account of the missing soldiers. The article mentions that some soldiers went to Gulf Breeze on a military mission, and each was trained in electronic warfare. They were arrested and taken to Fort Benning, Georgia, and later to Fort Benning, Texas. The article also states that the six soldiers are Sgt. Annette Eccleston, 22, of the U.S. Army, and the six are Sgt. Kenneth Benson, 26, of the U.S. Army, and the six are Sgt. Ken Perkins, 26, of the U.S. Army. The article concludes with a question, "Why Gulf Breeze?" and a statement, "Some say the soldiers went to Gulf Breeze on a military mission. Each was trained in electronic warfare. They were arrested and taken to Fort Benning, Georgia, and later to Fort Benning, Texas. The six are Sgt. Annette Eccleston, 22, of the U.S. Army, and the six are Sgt. what i find odd about the case is that it seems to include very odd synchronicity. The UFO flap at the time was a bit of a media circus and was even referenced by the X Files.

One of the soldiers claimed that the US government was working with aliens who had two factions "The Alliance" (good aliens) and "The Others" (bad aliens)

The image is a digital illustration featuring a stylized cartoon-like character with a large, open mouth. The character has a bright orange face with a prominent, triangular head shape. The eyes are wide open, and the eyebrows are raised, giving the impression of a strong emotion or reaction. The character's mouth is wide open, and the teeth are visible, suggesting a shout or scream.

The character is wearing a brown outfit with a visible chest and arm, and the outfit appears to be made of a soft, possibly plush material. The background of the image is a solid blue color, with a pattern of small, interconnected hexagons or molecules. These hexagons are colored in shades of pink and purple, and they are scattered throughout the background, creating a sense of a molecular or chemical environment.

There are no texts or discernible brands in the image. The style of the illustration is cartoonish and expressive, with a focus on the character's facial expression and the surrounding molecular environment. The image does not provide any additional context or information beyond the visual elements presented.

Seriously. It's the only religion that makes sense.

>all the "evidence" for Gnosticism is either made up or presented in a way that makes you think something different, plus it's just autism if it was a religion

>Vedics? Straight up refutes itself with the concept of Maya. If the physical is fake, how can you trust the documents and traditions telling you so?

>Folk religions/paganism/polytheism? Mental retardation on every level known to mankind. Ancient Greek philosophers and modern day philosophers and logic (the sciencecy kind and common speech kind) debunk said concept (Maximally Great Being, civil war between the pantheon every second if true, wouldn't be "gods" if they lacked certain qualities, etc.)

>Islam? Islamic dillema cracks it like Muhammad did Aisha when she was 9 >atheism? See polytheistic section (plus Ontological, Teleological, fine tuning, cause-causer, etc.)

>Judaism? It's Judaism, no need to say anything

>Prots? Stupid and contradicting the Bible and Traditon and literally everything

>Papists? Heretics (filioque) and schismatics and pedos

Orthodoxy is the only religion that accounts for all the data we have.

The image is a meme featuring three separate panels with a central figure that appears to be a stylized representation of Jesus Christ. The central figure is depicted with a beard, long hair, and a crown of thorns, which is a common symbol associated with Jesus.

In the top panel, the text reads "Hey Black Jesus," followed by "Nah, White Jesus," and "How bout you, Korean Jesus?" The text is in a casual, informal style, suggesting a playful or humorous tone.

The middle panel shows a close-up of the central figure's face, with the text "You see that shit?" written above it. The text is in a bold, capitalized font, which is typical for emphasizing a statement or question.

The bottom panel features a close-up of the central figure's face, with the text "Horry Shiet!" written above it. The text is in a bold, capitalized font, similar to the middle panel's text.

The background of the image is a plain, light color, which contrasts with the darker colors of the text and the central figure's face, making the text and the central figure stand out.

The overall style of the image is humorous and lighthearted, with a focus on the juxtaposition of religious imagery with a playful, irreverent tone.

The background of the cover features a collage of various religious and historical images. On the left side, there is a figure of a saint with a halo and a robe, suggesting a religious figure. To the right, there is a depiction of a group of people, possibly a family, with a baby in their arms, which could represent the family or community aspect of the Catholic Church.

The cover also includes a map with a compass rose, indicating a focus on geography and navigation. The map is surrounded by decorative elements such as a golden sun and a blue and white pattern, which add to the historical and religious theme of the cover.

The overall style of the image is academic and historical, with a focus on the intersection of religion, culture, and geography. The use of color and imagery suggests a book that delves into the historical and cultural aspects of the Catholic Church and its influence on Western civilization.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character with a predominantly green and blue color scheme. The character is seated on a throne-like structure with a golden hue. The character's attire includes a headdress with a large, circular headpiece that has a red and yellow design, and a necklace with multiple gemstones. The character's hair is styled in a long, wavy manner and is adorned with a variety of accessories, including a large, ornate headdress with feathers and a golden horn-like structure. The character's face is characterized by large, expressive eyes and a neutral expression.

The background of the image is a warm, golden color with a textured appearance, suggesting a setting that could be a temple or a palace. The character's posture is relaxed, with one hand resting on their chest and the other holding a small object, possibly a fan or a staff.

In the lower right corner of the image, there is text in Japanese, which translates to "Hobby Japan TEAS" and "Hobby Japan TEAS". The text is likely a reference to the artist or the theme of the artwork. The overall style of the image is fantasy-inspired, with a focus on the character's intricate attire and the detailed background.

If you want to logically persuade your opponents, you should not revert to fallacies, strawmans, and Jesuit level casuistry.

Out of love, I'm gonna show you how dumb every one of your arguments are

>All the evidence for Gnosticism is made up

Just factually incorrect, ever heard of the Nag Hamadi library? And basic linguistic and historical study will show you that things are not that simple - it looks like there was a spectrum of Christianity, one which had heavy influence from Greek religion / mystery cults and the other which was heavily Judaized. In fact, "Gnosticism" is a misnomer and tends to be a caricature of groups that were heavily Greek, many misinterpreting the idea of the Monad and the Demiurge.

Just compare the Ascension of Isaiah (heavily Jewish) to the Apophasis Megale (heavily Greek), it's night and day.

Did you also know that the word "mystery" as used in the New Testament is the same exact word as "sacrament" in the Latin Vulgate? The "mystery" of the woman giving birth in Revelation 12 is a "Sacrament." That's why it's sometimes translated as "sign."

Did Paul, John, or the Evangelists believe in Seven Mysteries and Seven Mysteries alone?

>Autism

Ad-hominem

>Vedic straight up refutes itself

>Paganism is dumb, Greeks were monotheists

Read the article I sent you. No they weren't. Have you ever read Pseudo-Dionysus? He's just applying Plotinus to Christianity. The Greeks didn't "refute" paganism. On the contrary, they tried to make sense of it in very intellectual terms, which is much needed in our era of nonsense Biblical literalism.

>Islam pedophilia

And Abraham did the same thing with Agar at 9 years old. The Protoevangelium of James says Mary was 12 when she gave birth and married Joseph.

>I'm not speaking to preference / subjective ethics

Morality is self-evidently not rooted in divine revelation or some external motion of God - if God commanded you to kill your child, most people would be cautious of that, consider that schizophrenia. Likewise, most reasonable people believe that in some sense morality has to have some consistency - if God decided one day rape of little boys is okay, most people wouldn't go "hur de due let's rape little boys"

I hold to a Kantian Evolutionary sense of morality, which is to say that morality formed as a framework to advance social cooperation and make civilization function. Is there a potential, spiritual, higher Platonic ideal which this morality comes from? Sure. But it certainly didn't come from God literally telling some Sand dweller that he is to have a harem.

>Objective framework

I just provided one for you.

>For the sake of argument

This is a equivocation fallacy. Just because theres some basic overlap between the norms of Western Civilization and the Muslim world doesn't mean that the Muslim world is equivalent or desired.

I'm sure there's some Africans with discs in their mouths who hate sodomy, does that mean we should live naked in mud huts? No.

>Muh Bible has these things

The Bible is mythology. Look at the work of Gad Barnea or Yonata Adler - it's pretty self evident the Bible as we know it is a product of Zoroastrians and Greeks retconning Semitic stories. At some level, we would not have the Bible without Western Civilization and Indo-Europeans imposing it's norms on the Jews. The Bible didn't establish foundational norms for Western Civilization - quite the opposite. Western Civilization provided the norms for the Bible.

Rome was doing just fine without the Bible or Christianity. Certainly though, I appreciate the Biblical mythology's influence on Western culture, but it's a product of Jews living under Greco-Roman rule.

>Judaism

The Quran literally has a one to one quote from the Talmud. And some of the worse aspects of Judaism found its way into Islam - Draconian death sentences, ridiculous modesty standards, hatred of art and music ("idolatry!"), mandatory circumcision, no pork, no alcohol, even some really basic Talmudic / Kabbalistic ideas are found in Islam that are obviously stolen from Judaism - Arabic as an eternal divine language that pre-existed creation (Jews believe the same as Hebrew), Yahweh having an angel that acts on his behalf given his inaccessibility as a man, etc.

The thing is with Judaism is that they never really had the opportunity to seize institutional power and play out their ridiculous standards - Islam has.

font size compared to the rest of the text on the page.

The main content of the image is a photograph of a man with a serious expression. He is wearing a white suit and a black shirt, and he is seated in a chair with his legs crossed. The background behind him is blurred, but it appears to be a room with bookshelves filled with books.

On the left side of the image, there is a tweet with the text "@JudeoChristian" followed by a link to a website. The tweet is in a smaller font size compared to the main content of the image.

On the right side of the image, there is a text that reads "Certainly we worship Jesus Christ, who was a Jewish man." The text is in a smaller font size compared to the main content of the image.

The overall style of the image is informational and seems to be a screenshot from a blog or website discussing the topic of "Judeo-Christian Controversy". The text and the photograph of the man are the main elements of the image, and the use of bold and larger font sizes draws attention to the main points being discussed.

>Darwinism survivalism, killing the elderly

Yes there is, such disdain of the elderly doesn't advance civilization, and when we look at the models of successful civilization (i.e., Rome), they didn't disdain the elderly. Nobody can properly date which Pharaoh the Exodus story happened under, because the Bible's claimed time doesn't match up with history. Additionally, the dates in the Bible aren't probably accurate anyways, because until the Hebrews met the Greeks, the Hebrews used a sexagesimal counting system that's so complicated that it's likely inaccurate translation wise. We do know Pharaoh Ramses II wrote a record designating the "Israelites" as his enemies around the 14th century BC, but it's listed among other peoples he waged war with, it doesn't seem to be any kind of exodus. There was a period of Egypt's history where a bunch of Canaanites seized power for 100 years before being expelled by Pharaoh "Ahmose I" in the 16th century BC, which vaguely matches the Joseph story. But either one you choose runs into a host of problems historically, especially with Biblical anarchisms.

Jesus did apparently say that the jews had failed and that God would be looking for a new chosen people. All in the parable of the wedding banquet.

The image is a graphic representation with a white background and a brown border. At the top, there is a text that reads "Jesus answered and said..." followed by "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." Below this, there is a smaller text that reads "Matthew 15:28." The image features two figures, one on the left and one on the right, both wearing traditional Jewish clothing. The figure on the left is wearing a red robe and a white head covering, while the figure on the right is wearing a brown robe and a white head covering. The figure on the right appears to be in a state of distress, with a tear visible on their face. The style of the image is reminiscent of a religious or biblical illustration, with a focus on the text and the figures.

"House of Israel" is not a nation and never was.

Not a jews of past and definitely not modern one's.

He was jewish messiah but as a guy who supposed to lead jews in search of "house of israel" lost sheeps.

They betrayed him.

[8 / 2]The image depicts a stairway ascending through a cloud-filled sky. The stairway is composed of a series of steps, with each step appearing to be slightly larger than the one below, leading up to a point where the sky meets the clouds. The sky is a bright blue, with white clouds scattered throughout, and the sun is shining brightly from the top of the stairway, casting a warm glow on the scene. The image has a dreamlike quality, with the stairway appearing to be floating in the sky, and the clouds and sky blending seamlessly together. There are no texts or discernible brands within the image. The style of the image is realistic with a focus on the stairway and the sky, and it conveys a sense of ascension or journey.

You could retravel back to 1950's Lose Angeles. With modest spiritual earnings easily obtainable in the life times and during death, one can be a deity in their own personal Heaven, or share one that or more than one that overlaps with other peoples', whether randoms or people you know. It's a paradise beyond description for all but the lowest earners, and it's still a paradise of some kind to them.

Imagine it as the best blessing of an Almighty Deity that loved you beyond words since before the Dawn of Time, a land that you would have been born into as your birthright from the very beginning of Creation were it not for the evils of Satan.

The Heavens are a land of infinite beyond infinite eternities in length of time, beyond measure greater than all the universes put together in scope of size, diverse and productive of work moreso then we could ever do in the Mortal Realm; rewarding work that gives one an indescribable feeling of purpose and reward for reasons immediately obvious to the person in Heaven. Part of what holds up this realm and the others is the work that takes place there. It's a land of masters, and The Hells the land of slaves, though in The Heavens you can play out some acting like a slave if you want to be subby but you'll be able to make people in The Hells do your bidding for countless effects.

Entrance is based on a graded curve, where your weaknesses are known to God and some mercy is shown for your shortcomings. The Hells are a land almost all serve a stint in for their sins but most and I mean nearly all get out eventually, long before one eternity has passed, and then the endless eternities of The Heavens.

One's station in The Heavens is not fixed when they arrive, but it is a society in which your station can rise or fall just as any other, but unless you sin you can only fall so far, into a lesser part of the Beautiful Land.

The christian heaven is described in revelation 21

"15 The angel who talked with me had a measuring rod of gold to measure the city, its gates and its walls. 16 The city was laid out like a square, as long as it was wide. He measured the city with the rod and found it to be 12,000 stadia[c] in length, and as wide and high as it is long. 17 The angel measured the wall using human measurement, and it was 144 cubits[d] thick.[e] 18 The wall was made of jasper, and the city of pure gold, as pure as glass. 19 The foundations of the city walls were decorated with every kind of precious stone. The first foundation was jasper, the second sapphire, the third agate, the fourth emerald, 20 the fifth onyx, the sixth ruby, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth turquoise, the eleventh jacinth, and the twelfth amethyst.[f] 21 The twelve gates were twelve pearls, each gate made of a single pearl. The great street of the city was of gold, as pure as transparent glass."

Think of a cube about 1,400 miles in each direction with God at the center, a kind of ideal city state the size of Germany and France. The people have perfect bodies that don't die and are given tasks and responsibilities. You don't just float around goofing off and being bored.

The image is a black and white illustration that depicts a scene within a grand, classical-style room. At the center of the image, there is a large, imposing figure with a stern expression, wearing a robe and a long beard. The figure's eyes are closed, and its mouth is open as if in a shout or a scream. The figure's head is slightly tilted to the left, and its hair is flowing down its back.

In front of the figure, there is a large, serpent-like creature with a long, coiled body. The creature's head is turned to the left, and its eyes are wide open, staring directly at the viewer. The creature's body is coiled around a small, circular object that appears to be a throne or a seat.

The room itself is grand and ornate, with tall columns on either side of the figure and the serpent. The floor is covered with a checkerboard pattern, and the walls are adorned with intricate carvings and patterns. The overall atmosphere of the image is dramatic and intense, with the figure and the serpent-like creature as the focal points.

peaceful, prosperous, and united humanity would be an existential threat to Zeus for three concrete reasons that are explicitly spelled out or strongly implied in the myths themselves.

1. A strong humanity would restart the cycle of overthrow

The Greeks believed the cosmos works in repeating generations:

Ouranos overthrown by Kronos overthrown by Zeus someone will overthrow Zeus.

The only thing that has delayed the next revolution is that Zeus keeps mortals weak, short-lived, and fighting each other.

If humans ever became:

long-lived again (like the Golden Race-Eden)

technologically advanced (fire + leisure + unity = rapid progress)

numerous and organized

...they would become the perfect army for the next god or Titan who wants Zeus's throne.

Look what almost happened already:

The city of Atlantis (in Plato, but drawing on older myths) became so rich, powerful, and technologically advanced that it tried to conquer the world Zeus personally drowned the entire civilization.

The giants Otus and Ephialtes (Aloadai) stacked mountains to climb to Olympus when they were only nine years old Artemis and Apollo killed them instantly.

The hero Bellerophon tried to fly to Olympus on Pegasus after too many victories Zeus threw him down and crippled him.

Zeus's own words (paraphrased from the myths)

“Let mortals never have a day without toil, so they never have time to plot against us.” (Hesiod's spirit)

“If they ever grow too proud or too numerous, I will drown them again.” (the Deucalion flood logic)

Every time a king boasts “my city is greater than the gods” (Niobe, Capaneus, Salmoneus, etc.), Zeus personally blasts them.

TL;DR — Why peaceful humanity = threat

A happy, united, long-lived, technologically advanced human race would:

Become the perfect army for the next cosmic rebellion.

Have the ability and motive to free the Titans or storm Olympus themselves.

Stop fearing or needing the gods, eroding divine power.

That is exactly why Zeus deliberately keeps the Iron Race miserable, divided, and short-lived.

Peace on Earth would literally be the countdown to the fall of Zeus Zuz. Sus. Je suis. In French "I Am".

The rider on a white horse with a bow. Bolts.

Mars/Ares. God of War. Weilder of the sword. Obviously the rider in red.

Neptune/Poseidon. God of The Seas. Weilder of The Trident. This one is tricky. In the Bible it says famine caries with it a scale. A scale has a center of balance and two forked prongs from the source. "The scales of a fish."

Then Death, of course, Hades. Ruler of The Underworld. His name needs no announcement or elucidation.

The Old Gods. Are in the Bible.

OP is proving right every mythos got its own Satan and God, it goes like this:

>Long ago, before any of the gods we know today were in charge, there was a real Highest Power—quiet, ancient, limitless.

That Highest Power made the first world, a perfect Golden Age where humans lived almost forever, knew everything, and walked with the divine like family.

Then came a younger, ambitious sky-god (call him Zeus, Odin, Enlil, Satan the current Indra—different names, same guy).

He and his crew staged a violent coup, killed or imprisoned the older gods, and took the throne for themselves.

To make sure no one could ever rebel, they shortened human lives, hid the real knowledge and power (the “fire”), and kept everyone fighting each other.

They rewrote all the stories so people would think the sky-god with the thunderbolt has always been the top boss.

But the older, true Power never died; it just went quiet and started preparing a comeback.

One day it sends its Son—the white-horse rider, the returning king, the avenger (Jesus, Kalki, Baldr, whoever the local name is)—with an army of awakened humans who finally got their long lives and their fire back.

That army storms the gates, the fake sky-god and all his angels get thrown down forever, the prisoners (Prometheus, the Titans, Enki, the good giants) are freed, and the real Golden Age starts again—this time unbreakable.

That single story is the oldest one humans ever told, hidden under every religion and myth for the last six thousand years and more.

We’re living in the last chapter right now.

That’s it. That’s the whole thing.

We are being devoured by time. Ask any elder how long his day is. His day is much shorter than yours.

This is not the real world, poets portray gods as tyrants because in the past they needed thoughtforms in order to form governments. The idea of a State is the epitome of npc tyranny against the individual. Notice how religion is just politics idealized.

The image is a digital illustration featuring a character that resembles a frog with a human-like face. The frog is seated at a desk, wearing a blue shirt with a collar and a blue tie. The frog's eyes are wide open, and its mouth is slightly open, as if it is speaking or thinking. The frog's hands are clasped together in front of it, and its fingers are slightly curled. The frog's expression is one of concentration or thoughtfulness.

In front of the frog is a computer monitor with a silver frame and a white screen. The monitor is turned on, displaying a blue background with a white border. The frog is looking at the monitor, suggesting that it is engaged in some form of computer activity.

The image is simple and cartoon-like, with a focus on the frog character and the interaction between it and the computer. There are no texts or additional elements in the image. The style of the illustration is reminiscent of digital art, particularly in the use of color and the character's facial expression.

has anyone noticed the complete assimilation of the divine light motif of Christianity by the political and spiritual left?

The rainbow, a promise of consistency in creation turned into a symbol of sexual anarchy and sodomy to spite the creator.

The light of Jesus Christ of John 1, "The true light that gives light to everyone was coming into the world. He was in the world, and though the world was made through him, the world did not recognize him." is being obscured and billions are being led to the fake light motif.

"Liberty" is no longer liberation from the evil one but liberation from the Church and State combined to live as you please, conveniently you'd never want to live righteously anyway without those institutions.

"Fire", the imagery of the holy spirit, now meant as inspiration for the enlightenment of man to sin freely without the repression of medieval institutions.

Even if you aren't a Christian, isn't it a LITTLE suspicious that we are approaching a state of social organization based on "anti" Christian motifs and icons? Almost an... antichrist? This can only end well for society.

Fortunately, the gates of hell will not prevail against Christ's church and the baptized. Repent and be saved.

Spare me the edgy Reddit theology. Jesus wasn't 'killed by the state, He allowed Himself to be taken as the ultimate demonstration of personal responsibility. If anything, it proves why we need a strong moral state with well-funded law enforcement and low taxes so people learn accountability.

And by the way, Jesus absolutely supported capitalism. Ever heard of the Parable of the Talents? Man practically invented investment culture. If He were around today He'd be running a small business, open-carrying under His God-given Second Amendment rights, and clocking in every Sunday to remind us that the free market is sacred as long as it's Christian.

The image is a page from a book or article, likely a historical or religious text, with a focus on the topic of cultural Marxism. The page is divided into two columns, with the left column featuring a large image of Jesus Christ, and the right column containing a series of quotes from various religious figures, including the Prophet, the Disciples, and Jesus himself. The text is in English and is written in a serif font, which is typical for academic or formal publications.

At the top of the page, the title "CULTURAL MARXISM" is prominently displayed in bold, capital letters, indicating the central theme of the content. Below the title, the phrase "HOW IT ALL BEGAN" is written in a smaller font, suggesting that the text will delve into the origins or historical context of cultural Marxism.

The left column features a large image of Jesus Christ, who is depicted with a beard and wearing a white robe, with the text "THE PROPHET" and "THE DISCIPLES" below the image. The right column contains a series of quotes from religious figures, including the Prophet, the Disciples, and Jesus himself. The quotes are arranged in a grid format, with each quote on a separate line, and the names of the religious figures are listed below each quote.

The overall style of the image is informative and educational, designed to convey the complexity and historical context of the topic at hand. The use of quotes and the layout of the text suggest that the content is intended to be both informative and engaging, likely intended for a general audience interested in the subject of cultural Marxism.

>has anyone noticed the complete assimilation of the divine light motif of Christianity

No, no one has, neither have you

Christianity is and always was a form of cultural marxism, anyone who is biblically literate knows that the left embodies the will of the Father, whereas the right lives in opposition of Christ's teachings

The Holy Spirit is a communist tax collector who will kill you if you refuse to pay 100% taxes to the church

>Acts 5:3-6

But Peter said, "Ananias, why has Satan filled your heart to lie to the Holy Spirit and keep back part of the price of the land for yourself? 4 While it remained, was it not your own? And after it was sold, was it not in your own control? Why have you conceived this thing in your heart? You have not lied to men but to God." Then Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and breathed his last. So great fear came upon all those who heard these things. And the young men arose and wrapped him up, carried him out, and buried him.

Jesus wants you to transcend your flesh and to become a tranny for the kingdom of heaven

>Matthew 19:12

For there are eunuchs who were born thus from their mother's womb, and there are eunuchs who were made eunuchs by men, and there are eunuchs who have made themselves eunuchs for the kingdom of heaven's sake. He who is able to accept it, let him accept it."

>Acts 8:36-38

Now as they went down the road, they came to some water. And the eunuch said, "See, here is water. What hinders me from being baptized?" Then Philip said, "If you believe with all your heart, you may." And he answered and said, "I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." So he commanded the chariot to stand still. And both Philip and the eunuch went down into the water, and he baptized him.

Christianity has been overtaken by materialistic individuals who use it as a platform of moral superiority.

It used as an instrument of control for the masses to allow for a class system to perpetuate.

Positions of power will always attract people who want to abuse that power.

This post is clearly politically motivated AI slop.

There are plenty of good Christian leftists & plenty of child molesting right wingers.

Being a conservative doesn't automatically mean "you're a good person", the same way being a progressive doesn't mean "you're a good person".

I've met plenty of "Good Christians" with $600 car payments never lift a finger to help people with less than them; always using "God helps those who help themselves" as an excuse.

Met plenty "Marxists" with iPhones and designer clothes never even try to give a homeless man so much as a glance.

Politics are methods of division; if you really walked with God, you wouldn't need external validation or the moral high ground to see yourself as "better than you".

This thread is fake & gay.

Not like two men engaging in a loving embrace, but gay like when OP sucked his buddy's dick on a field trip and has been afraid of anyone finding out ever since

But what's really going on with the world?

Don't let the freaks on /adv/ or plebbit or any other normie infested public forum fool you by saying they think the world's great and everything's going perfectly, they're miserable and mostly lying/projecting.

All my friends are absolutely miserable. Even the ones who are wealthy, came from well off families, old money families, families from all walks of life, all economic backgrounds, split homes, no homes, no mom, no dad, whatever the case might be, everyone seems absolutely fucked up. Divides between races and sexes are just the start and people are placated into accepting it subconsciously or consciously because buying into the system offers a chance of money or pussy.

Women acting like men isn't solving anything. Importing the third world and forcing people to get along or else isn't solving anything.

I know numerous men, healthy 20 to 30 something men with families of their own, who are hopelessly addicted to pornography. Some of them are morphing into autogynopheliacs, only getting off by pretending to be the chick they're watching get raped. If that isn't Satanic I don't know what is.

Absolutely nothing seems to be helping the general populace today. It's sad that all we can really do is save ourselves.

>Moloch child sacrifice.

Yahweh loves child sacrifices more than Moloch

>2 Kings 3:26-27

>And when the king of Moab saw that the battle was too fierce for him, he took with him seven hundred men who drew swords, to break through to the king of Edom, but they could not.

>Then he took his eldest son who would have reigned in his place, and offered him as a burnt offering upon the wall; and there was great indignation against Israel. So they departed from him and returned to their own land.

as it is demonstrated, Yahweh abandoned the israelites and allowed the Moabite king to triumph over them, not because of their military power, but because the Moabite king sacrificed his firstborn son

furthermore

Yahweh personally commanded the israelites to kill every gentile child that they could get their hands on.

>Numbers 31:17

>Now therefore, kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who is not a virgin

God himself killed all the firstborn of egyot

>Exodus 12:29

[30 / 3]The image is a vibrant and colorful digital artwork featuring a stylized representation of a human head. The head is composed of a central, elongated, and radiant eye surrounded by a swirling pattern of lines and dots, which gives the impression of a cosmic or spiritual energy. The eye is a bright, multicolored circle with a white pupil, and it is surrounded by a swirl of colors that radiate outward, creating a sense of energy or light emanating from the eye.

The background of the artwork is a deep blue with a pattern of small, dark dots that create a sense of depth and texture. The overall style of the artwork is reminiscent of psychedelic or dream-like art, characterized by its use of bright colors and abstract patterns. The image does not contain any discernible text or specific actions being performed by the objects within it. The relative positions of the objects are such that the eye is centrally located, with the swirling pattern surrounding it, and the dots in the background are evenly distributed around the eye. The image does not provide any information about the size or scale of the objects, as it is a close-up or detailed representation of the head.

By that reckoning ain't it also the case that the giant spaghetti monster in the sky is necessarily true?

Our One Creator Which Flies and is Spaghetti and a Monster,

I believe Thou art the Creator of Goodness and Nourishment, and of Sustenance. I thank the Pasta, and the Sauce, and the Meatballs, for they provide me all my needs.

I thank Thee for the Many Beverages that Thou provides, for they engender true fellowship, and I will quaff them heartily, be they Beer, or Wine, or Sweet Iced Tea (in the South), or even Milk or Kool-Aid, for it is not good to withhold fluids, and I need to take care of my Body, as Beneficiary of Thine Holy Goodness.

I thank Thee for the giving of healthful Green Salad, the Yummy Garlic Bread, and the Blessed Cheese for the top of my Spaghetti, and also I am most thankful that If I eat All my Dinner, a Dessert of Extreme Chocolateness will surely follow, preferably Dark Chocolate, for it is Good.

I believe that Thou are neither Male, nor Female, but are instead beyond the reaches of the gender confusion of Man and Woman Kind, yea, thou are ageless, timeless and all-encompassing.

I most humbly thank Thee, oh Noodly Appendaged One, for Touching me with the mental capacity to adapt the mythologies of This Universe to aid and comfort me here, until that day I am able to join together with my Pastafarian Brothers and Sisters at the foot of the Beer Volcano, and enumerate my specifications at the Stripper Factory, so that happiness and contentedness and good cheer be present for all, forever and forever,

For the sake of intellectual rigor, let's compare the two models:

Solipsism:

- > Predicts nothing
- > Explains nothing
- > Cannot be disproven
- > Has no pasta

Flying Spaghetti Monsterism:

- > Predicts you will be touched by His Noodly Appendage
- > Explains carbohydrate cravings
- > Cannot be disproven
- > Provides pasta

Under OP's "unfalsifiable = true" rule, the evidence strongly favors the Noodly One.

We must follow the data, even when carb-loaded.

solipsism is one of the most frightening things i've ever encountered. i've willingly put myself through a world of misery, and to remove my omnipotence as well. i can no longer teleport, fly, levitate objects, manifest things out of thin air, create entire worlds with the snap of a finger. No, i've lost this ability. I have created a world at some point in my omnipotent state. and then willingly taken away all my powers, to experience lack, and suffering. and toil, blood and sweat.

This is a frightening worldview, silver lining is that i will end the dream at one point (death) and then merge with the infinite omniscience, ecstasy and omnipotence and godlikeness.

It's going to take a while, i'm going to have to endure a lot of pain and boredom first.

[16 / 3]The image is a digital artwork that features a surrealistic composition. In the foreground, there is a large, spherical, glass-like object floating in the water, which appears to be a representation of the Earth. The Earth is depicted with a blue sky and a sun positioned behind it, casting a warm glow. The water surrounding the Earth is a gradient of orange and red hues, suggesting a sunset or sunrise.

In the background, there is a blurred figure with a dark, shadowy appearance, which could be interpreted as a figure of a deity or a spirit. The figure is positioned behind the Earth, and its face is not clearly visible due to the blur. The overall color palette of the image is dominated by warm tones, with the orange and red hues of the water and the Earth contrasting with the dark, shadowy figure in the background.

There are no texts or discernible brands within the image. The style of the image is abstract and surreal, with a focus on the interplay of light, color, and form. The artwork does not provide any specific information about its context or meaning beyond the visual elements presented.

To what extent is the whole "the elites believe in karmic retribution, that's why they engage in predictive programming/symbolism/etc to tell you what they're doing and thereby absolve themselves" thing true? I feel like a good three quarters of all conspiracy theories on the internet hinge on this being true, but oftentimes it just feels like a cop out to say that everything evil in the world is hiding in plain sight rather than searching for where it actually appears. In all fairness there are certain examples of symbolism I've seen that are pretty undeniable, but a lot of the time stuff like this seems like such a stretch

The "revelation of the method" and "consent" in occultism is not so much about karma (the occultists will get the consequences of their actions anyway) it's about a law of the cosmos that makes actions done against the will of many people less likely to be successful. The aversion of the people seemingly creates a kind of blockade. So if they want to progress their agenda they have to reduce resistance and aversion in the people. So for this new world order stuff they try to create a desire for it in the people. And the way to do this seems to make everything so chaotic and miserable that the stability of a new totalitarian nwo system will look like the better option.

Unfortunately, I no longer believe it is true that they'll get any form of punishment, or at least they've managed to shield themselves in some way. Many of them, who are greedy participants, will be punished, but only because they're useful tools that are then discarded, the real puppeteers of our reality however won't get punished.

There is the evil of this world, and then there is an eldritch, primordial evil, that is a bottomless black hole. The black magicians essentially act as a stopgap, they control as much of the "evil" as possible, to prevent the entrance of eldritch evil to enter this world and completely destroy society. The dark, very dark truth, is that this is necessary.

Karma means "action." As in, your actions matter. When you are finished, your afterlife experience is essentially unpacking your bag of actions and seeing their potentials play out from the eyes of others. The more you help people, the more this experience traps you with warm, fuzzy feelings (this is "heaven") and the more you commit atrocities, the more the weight of the suffering your actions caused others traps you masochistically with shame, guilt, and remorse. This is "hell." Keeping a low score on karma leaves you with a greater sense of clarity once this life is over because there is less bullshit--good or bad--to unpack and process. You won't find yourself nearly so confused when the bus ride out of this hole arrives. Otherwise, your karma leads you directly into dreaming up your next mistake and incarnating to fix whatever feelings came up processing your last fuck ups. There is no karmic master. Your own feelings about the TRUTH are harsh enough.

The image is a close-up of a page from an old book or manuscript, featuring a complex and intricate text in a script that is not entirely clear due to the resolution and angle of the photograph. The text is written in a mix of Latin and possibly other languages, with some words appearing to be in a different script or language altogether. The page is filled with dense, handwritten lines that are not uniform in size, suggesting a variety of handwriting styles.

In the upper right corner of the page, there is a small illustration of a ship with sails and a mast, suggesting a maritime theme. The ship is depicted in a realistic style, with detailed features such as the sails, masts, and rigging. The background of the illustration is a dark, possibly sepia-toned color, which contrasts with the lighter text and the ship, making the ship stand out.

The overall style of the image is reminiscent of historical or ancient manuscripts, with a focus on the text and the ship illustration, rather than the specific content of the text itself. The image does not provide any additional context or information about the content of the text or the ship illustration.

Her hair is long and appears to be flowing down her back. She is leaning against a wall with a greenish hue, and there is a tree with red flowers in the background. The woman's posture suggests she is in a relaxed state, possibly asleep or resting.

The illustration has a warm color palette with shades of pink, green, and red. The text within the illustration is in a serif font and reads: "Quiet as the dead, she lay on her pillow, woodbine, cumbered &." The text is placed at the bottom of the illustration, providing a title or description for the scene.

The style of the illustration is reminiscent of the Art Nouveau genre, characterized by its use of flowing lines, naturalistic details, and a focus on organic forms. The art style is detailed and intricate, with a focus on the interplay of light and shadow to create a sense of depth and three-dimensionality. The image is a black and white illustration that appears to be a page from a book or a document, possibly a book of magic or alchemy, given the presence of symbols and text that are commonly associated with such texts. The central focus of the image is a large, ornate, circular pattern that resembles a calendar or a time-telling device. This pattern is divided into 36 equal sections, each marked with a number from 1 to 36. Above the calendar, there is a depiction of a figure seated on a throne, holding a scepter and a book, which suggests a theme of authority or wisdom.

To the left of the calendar, there is a figure holding a staff and a book, which could represent knowledge or learning. On the right side of the calendar, there is a figure holding a book and a candle, which could symbolize illumination or enlightenment. Above the calendar, there is a depiction of a figure with a crown and a scepter, which could represent royalty or authority.

The image also includes various other symbols and text, such as stars, a crescent moon, and a key, which are commonly used in alchemical or magical contexts. The style of the image is reminiscent of medieval or Renaissance art, with its intricate details and symbolic representations. The overall composition of the image suggests a theme of time, knowledge, and the passage of seasons or the cycle of life.

The image is a black and white sketch of a mechanical clock with a complex design. The clock features a large circular dial with Roman numerals, indicating the hours, and a smaller dial with Arabic numerals, indicating the minutes. The clock's hands are slender and appear to be made of metal, with the hour hand pointing to the number 12 and the minute hand pointing to the number 6. The clock is suspended from a thin, curved rod that extends from the bottom of the image to the top, suggesting it is hanging from the ceiling or a similar structure.

The clock's design includes intricate details such as gears, cogs, and other mechanical components, which are detailed and rendered with a fine line art style. The background of the sketch is plain and light-colored, which contrasts with the dark lines of the clock and allows the details of the clock to stand out. There is a small, indistinct figure to the left of the clock, but it is not clear enough to be identified. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional or classical art, with a focus on the mechanical and technical aspects of the clock.

The image is a black and white photograph featuring a group of five children. The children are standing close together, with their faces turned towards the camera. The child in the foreground is slightly blurred, making it difficult to discern their features. The other four children are in sharp focus, with their expressions ranging from smiles to neutral expressions. The background is out of focus, with a hint of a wall and a window, but the details are not clear enough to provide a detailed description of the environment. The style of the image is candid and appears to be taken in a casual setting, possibly during a family gathering or a school event. There are no discernible texts or logos in the image.

The image features a stylized, abstract representation of an eye with rays emanating from it, set against a textured, golden-brown background. The eye is the central focus of the image, with rays radiating outward from it, creating a sense of depth and dimension. The rays are thin and elongated, suggesting a sense of focus or concentration.

At the bottom of the image, there is a text overlay that reads, "The secret to having it all is knowing that you do." The text is in a bold, sans-serif font and is white, which contrasts with the golden-brown background and the eye, making it stand out. The text is centered and aligned to the left, following the shape of the eye. The overall style of the image is modern and minimalist, with a focus on the eye and the text, suggesting a message of self-awareness and personal responsibility.

The image is a composite of two separate photographs, both taken from an aerial perspective. The top photograph shows a landscape dominated by a large, flat, brown, and barren area that resembles a table rock formation. The rock is surrounded by a dense forest of trees and shrubs, and the ground is covered in a mix of grass and dirt. The sky is clear, and the sunlight illuminates the scene, casting shadows and highlighting the textures of the rock and vegetation.

The bottom photograph is a close-up of a single tree stump, which is also brown and appears to be weathered. The stump is surrounded by a patch of green grass and is partially covered in moss. The text "Lower Table Rock Mun., Medford Or" is overlaid on the image, suggesting that the photograph is from the Lower Table Rock area in Medford, Oregon. The style of the image is realistic, with a focus on the natural beauty of the landscape.

The image is a traditional Indian illustration, likely from a religious or mythological context, depicting a figure in a dynamic pose. The figure is a man with a beard, wearing a red and gold robe, and a golden crown on his head. He is holding a large, curved object in his right hand, which appears to be a bell or a similar musical instrument. The man is standing on one leg, with his left leg raised and bent at the knee, and his right leg extended forward. He is wearing a pink and orange sash around his waist.

The background of the image features a landscape with a body of water, a hill, and trees. The colors are vibrant, with the red and gold of the robe contrasting against the green of the landscape and the blue of the water. The overall style of the image is reminiscent of traditional Indian art, with its use of bold colors and detailed figures. There are no visible texts on the image.

The image is a vibrant and expressive oil painting that depicts a group of people in a dynamic and lively scene. The figures are rendered in a loose, gestural style, with visible brushstrokes that add texture and depth to the composition. The colors are bold and varied, with a palette that includes shades of red, blue, green, and yellow, which contribute to the overall vibrancy of the scene.

The central figure is a person wearing a white garment with a red and green pattern, and a white hat with a red feather. This figure is surrounded by other figures, some of whom are wearing colorful clothing and accessories, such as hats and scarves. The background is a soft, muted color, with a pale blue sky and a hint of a white cloud, which contrasts with the vivid colors of the figures and adds a sense of depth to the painting.

The painting is signed "R.C.A.B." in the lower right corner, indicating the artist's signature. The style of the painting, with its bold colors and expressive brushwork, suggests that it may be a work from the early to mid-20th century, possibly influenced by the post-impressionist and expressionist movements. The overall composition and style of the painting are characteristic of the early 20th-century avant-garde art movement known as Cubism.

The image is a page from a book or publication, featuring a detailed illustration of the pentagram, a symbol often associated with magic and occultism. The pentagram is composed of five intersecting lines, each representing a different element: earth, air, fire, water, and spirit. The lines are arranged in a pentagon shape, with the top line representing the element earth, the second line representing air, the third line representing fire, the fourth line representing water, and the bottom line representing spirit.

The pentagram is surrounded by text that provides information about each element and its corresponding symbol. The text is written in a Gothic script, which is a type of old English writing that is characterized by its ornate and elaborate style. The font is black, which contrasts with the beige background of the page, making the text easily readable.

The image is a digital reproduction, and the style of the illustration is reminiscent of traditional magic or occult symbols, which are often used in the practice of Wicca, a religion that incorporates elements of witchcraft and esotericism. The pentagram is the central focus of the image, with the surrounding text providing context and explanation for the symbols within the pentagram. The overall style of the image is educational and informative, designed to convey the meaning and significance of the pentagram to those familiar with its symbolism.

The image is a two-panel comic strip with a simple, cartoon-style illustration. In the first panel, there is a large, green frog with a speech bubble that reads "TIME TO GET SILLY!!!" The frog appears to be in a joyful state, with its mouth open wide and eyes wide open, and it has a big smile on its face. The background is a plain, light beige color.

In the second panel, the same frog is depicted in a different setting. It is standing in front of a grid-like pattern of white squares, which gives the impression of a small, enclosed space. The frog is looking up at the viewer with a surprised expression, and it has a speech bubble that says "I GOT TOO SILLY!!!" The frog's eyes are wide open, and it has a small, surprised smile on its face. The background is the same light beige color as the first panel.

The comic strip is humorous, as the frog's surprised expression and the speech bubble suggest that it has been caught in a moment of silliness. The use of a grid pattern in the background adds a playful and whimsical touch to the scene.

The Russian sorcerer Yureey Longo makes the dead man move for a short period of time. This caused a lot of controversy in the press, perhaps it was his greatest achievement in his entire career as a sorcerer. Not everyone believed it. But I must say, the corpse was fresh, which increases the likelihood of its movement significantly.

✧ OUTRO

Epilogue: Leaving the Glass Desert

When you leave the Glass Desert, the first thing you notice is how quiet the world feels. After pages of fractured voices, arguments, prophecies, confessions, spirals, and psychic debris, the silence feels unnatural — like the moment after a sandstorm when the air becomes too still, as if waiting for the next collapse.

This book was never meant to resolve the Memory War. It was meant to show it: the way people cling to ideas not because they believe them, but because they fear what will happen if they forget. The way digital spaces turn into battlegrounds where every claim becomes a weapon. The way memory erodes not just from time, but from overload — too many narratives, too many timelines, too many competing versions of the world.

But the deeper truth revealed here is simple:
the war is not about what happened. It is about who gets to remember it.

The voices you encountered — coherent or broken, brilliant or absurd — are artifacts of a civilization in cognitive freefall. They are testimonies from a species straddling the border between enlightenment and disintegration. They matter not because they are correct, but because they show what happens when the mind tries to survive in a world where memory is both weapon and casualty.

Now you exit the desert the same way you entered it: alone, with only your own memory to guide you. But something has shifted. You have seen what forgetting does to people. You have seen how much effort it takes to hold on to a single coherent sense of truth in a world designed to erase it. You have seen the cost of remembering in a time when remembering is resistance.

This volume closes with no final victory — only the awareness that the Memory War is ongoing, and that you carry its echoes inside you now. The desert remains behind you, shimmering and sharp, waiting for the next seeker brave enough to walk across its glass.

Carry what survived.
Release what shattered.
And know this:
in the war for memory, even fragments matter.
